Vice-Chancellors Welcome CTEC Report

The Executive of the Australian Vice-Chancellors' Committee at its meeting in Canberra welcomed Volume 1 of the Report of the Commonwealth Tertiary Education Commission for the Triennium 1985-87, and especially the basic proposition that the expansion of activity in higher education is both necessary and timely in the interests of extending the contribution of the universities to national development through their teaching and research.

While the AVCC Executive regrets that the Commission did not fully support the recommendations of the Universities Council, it accepts the Commission's funding proposals as the necessary minimum to sustain the Government's programmes for increased participation and greater equity in higher education.

The Report documents the extent to which the decline in real funding for universities in recent years has put at risk the quality of university work; and indicates that increased funding for operating costs, buildings and equipment is necessary to improve participation and to make special provisions for increasing access for disadvantaged groups. The AVCC Executive strongly endorsed these conclusions as it believes that increased support for higher education should have high priority in the Government's budgeting.

The AVCC Executive also strongly endorsed the recommendations for increased funding for research by the expansion of the special research centres scheme; and the inclusion of proposals for reinforcing institutional strengths in teaching.

The Chairman of the Australian Vice-Chancellors' Committee (Professor Michael Birt) described the Report, "Programme for Growth", "as a blueprint for the resumption of the effective development of the university system". He said that it was important that the Commission's recommendations be accepted if progress is to be made towards meeting the Government's objectives for higher education. Professor Birt was sure that universities would respond effectively to suggestions made in the Report about desirable institutional changes and developments.

GUEST CONDUCTOR FOR SECOND SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT

Resident conductor and music director John Wayne Dixon will have to buy a ticket to hear the Second Subscription Concert, "Lorraine Smith Plays", on May 26. He has handed his baton to British composer, painter and academic Professor Edward Cowie.

Since arriving in Australia in 1983 to take up the position as Head of the newly established School of Creative Arts at the University of Wollongong, Cowie has presented works at the Seymour Centre in Sydney, and featured extensively at the Adelaide Festival where he conducted his piece, "Kate Kelly's Roadshow", his concerto for Orchestra Op. 19, and held an exhibition of his paintings. However, this will be his first concert in Wollongong.

John Wayne Dixon said the orchestra had reached the stage where valuable experience would be gained from working with guest conductors. He was delighted that they had the opportunity to play under a conductor with an international reputation such as Edward Cowie. Judging from rehearsals, the concert on the 26th May promises to be one of the highlights of the series.

The programme will include:

Elgar: 'Introduction and Allegro' Op. 47 for Strings. One of the great works for orchestral strings and one of the composer's finest creations, which will demand the best in concentration from the orchestra's newly enlarged string section.

Beethoven: Symphony No. 7 in A, Op. 92, which needs no introduction. It is one of the happiest of the immortal nine symphonies.

Wieniawski: Violin Concerto No. 2 in D minor, Op. 22. Henri Wieniawski (1835-1880) was one of the great virtuoso composer/performers in 19th Century Europe. This work, composed in 1870, has a delightful "gypsy" style finale, a popular way (at the time) of rounding off a concerto. The soloist is Lorraine Smith who was born in 1961 in Wollongong. Her appearance on May 26th will be her first as a Concerto Soloist in Wollongong. Lorraine Smith played in the City of Wollongong Symphony Orchestra from 1972-75. She graduated with merit from the Sydney Conservatorium, having led the Conservatorium Symphony Orchestra on an overseas tour. She is now a member of the Australian Chamber Orchestra with which she has toured abroad to the Far East.

WOLLONGONG AT ANZAAS

Three important papers were given by Wollongong academics at the ANZZS Conference in Canberra starting 14th May. An abstract of the first was published last week. The second by Professor Ron Johnston and Ms. Pam Scott of HPS deals with the Australian response to the threat of an exotic disease incursion, and the establishment of ANAHL.

The establishment of the Australian National Animal Health Laboratory has for many years been presented as the major element in the Australian armoury against an exotic disease incursion.

This paper examines the way in which the series of decisions to construct the $250 million facility were made. In particular, the arguments and evidence used and interests involved in establishing:

1. the need for a maximum security animal health laboratory;
2. the economic justification of the expenditure; and
3. the value of the proposed functions of diagnosis, training, research and vaccine production;

are critically reviewed.

The debate about the need and nature of ANAHL was conducted almost entirely among institutions and individuals committed to the laboratory and their perceptions of need and judgements of value largely determined the decisions reached. The changing scientific and political climate led to a continuing shift in the arguments and evidence offered, but these were all designed to maintain the basis for the initial conception of ANAHL. These shifts, however, eventually served to highlight the uncertainties and value judgements in the arguments, and to an erosion of the credibility of the decision-making institutions and the proponents of ANAHL.

Now established, ANAHL may make a useful contribution to minimising the harmful effects of exotic diseases on Australian agriculture. However, as an exercise in science policy decision-making, it demonstrates the weakness of a system where scientific proponents dominate the roles of counsel, judge, and political decision-maker as well. It also highlights the inadequacies of major science policy decisions taken on an ad hoc basis, in a climate of special pleading, and in the absence of a general guiding policy.

NESKOVSKI ACCEPTED BY NATIONAL PLAY-WRIGHTS CONFERENCE

A second year Acting student at the School of Creative Arts, William Neskovski has had a play accepted for reading at Australia's most prestigious forum for new works, The Australian National Playwrights' Conference which is held annually in Canberra.

The conference has been a showcase for many new works written by both new and established playwrights. Later this year, the School of Creative Arts will give the premier performance of one such work, "Zimmer", by Dorothy Hewett and Robert Adamson.

William Neskovski's as yet untitled play deals with Macedonian emigrants in Wollongong and is a sensitive and perceptive look at the disintegration of the social fabric that occurs for some migrants.

Title: First Year Mathematics Courses at U.N.S.W.

Abstract: Professor Low has been Director of First Year Studies in Mathematics at U.N.S.W. for a number of years. As our classes have increased in size dramatically over the past two years, we have invited Professor Low to describe the organisation of courses at U.N.S.W. The seminar will be informal, with about half an hour available for questions and discussion.

Members of the Engineering Faculty with an interest in Mathematics pre-requisites, and the influence of Mathematics I on their enrolments and pass rates, would be most welcome.

Title: Operations Research Applied to Electricity Consumption Schedules.

Abstract: This lecture is the final lecture in the course MATH304, Operations Research. The State Electricity Commission has introduced a schedule of tariffs which crudely approach the true marginal cost of electricity, thus forcing major industrial users to apply operations research methods to modify their patterns of electricity use. We have incorporated the seminar in our lecture course for the benefit of students of the course, but staff and visitors will be welcome to this, the last seminar of Session 1.

The theme of URPI 12 will be "Information Systems for Regions of Change". This theme will allow a focus on regional change and the need for planning information to manage it. The Illawarra Region is undergoing dramatic change, partly due to the impact of technology. Planning and Information Systems have a key role to play in the economic and social development of regional communities.

The University has been invited to take a leading role in the Conference.

Letters

STAFF CLUB QUERIED

15th May, 1984

Dear Giles,

We wish to use the columns of Campus News to protest against the proposal currently being made for a staff club at the University. Quite apart from the elitism implicit in this proposal we find it astonishing that anyone could entertain the notion of using the University's resources to provide leisure facilities for staff at a time when other and more important needs are so great and the means of meeting those needs so small.

The immediate occasion of this letter, however, is not so much our general opposition to this proposal as the means by which its proponents are advancing it. As an example we draw attention to a questionnaire we received in this morning's mail.

This document requested staff to say whether or not they would use a staff club and also asked for their opinions on what sort of facilities the club should provide. It did not ask whether such a club should be built at all, nor whether the University should make a financial contribution to building the club, nor did it ask respondents who favoured building the club how they would rank it relative to other priorities. We suggest that the interests of the University would have been better served by this survey if it had included (among others), the following extra question, viz.,

"Given the current situation of overcrowding at the University and given the extremely poor environment in which many students and staff have been forced to work, please rank the following in terms of what you see as priorities:

- (a) Library extensions
- (b) Extensions to teaching areas
- (c) Additional computer facilities for students' use.
- (d) Additional teaching posts in departments with poor staff-student ratios
- (e) Building a nice quiet place for staff to snooze in on hot afternoons"

Yours,

Michael Morrissey, Mary Kalantzis, Bill Cope, Di Slade, Jim Black,

GUINNESS RECORD ATTEMPT

Dear Sir,

I'm writing with regard to the attempt by students at the University of Wollongong for the world record volleyball marathon.

Twelve students enrolled in the Bachelor of Education will endeavour to break the existing record of seventy five hours in July this year. The reason for such an attempt is to raise finance for much needed equipment in the Physical Education Section of the University. This equipment will serve many functions including:

- fitness assessments for students and the community,
- analysis of training methods for sporting teams, for example the Illawarra Steelers and Cross Country Hawks who both make use of our current facilities, and with the increased awareness of physical fitness healthier lifestyles, we hope that the use of such equipment will be beneficial to people in the Illawarra Region.

It would be appreciated if members of staff and members of the Friends of the University could assist us in the form of a donation or sponsorship. Our total target is $5,000. The event is currently being promoted by radio station 2WL, the Illawarra Mercury, Campus News, and WIN 4 Television, who will be running stories during the event.

It is also hoped that Sydney media will run stories. As you can see any sponsorship of the record attempt will be widely publicised. For further information contact John Lee, P.O. Box 1496, Wollongong, 2500, or by phoning 27-0871 (business hours).

GORDON McLEISH

On 14 May, 1984, after a very short illness, Gordon died in Wollongong Hospital. His death was a shock to his family, friends and colleagues who had little idea that he was so seriously ill.

Gordon joined Wollongong Institute of Advanced Education on 17.4.74. On Federation of the Institute and the University, he was transferred to the Education Resources Centre where he quickly became an invaluable and highly respected member of the staff. He will be remembered for his superb ability to diagnose and correct faults in sophisticated electronic equipment as well as for his expertise in constructing practical audio and video systems.

Many students have been grateful for Gordon's ability to communicate effectively as he instructed them in the use of equipment. He was always clear, helpful and kind and spared no efforts to make sure that his clients understood him. If he had not chosen electronics as a career, Gordon would have made an excellent teacher. He was an expert in his field, a fine communicator with a deep feeling for the needs and difficulties of students.

But he will be remembered most deeply, by most people, for his warmth and sense of fun.

Wherever he went, Gordon could make his many friends laugh and forget their problems. He was a private man, and few in the University knew of his commitments to the theatre, to music, to the model train society, to chess and to sport. He was a much loved Santa Claus at work and in the Dapto area. He loved children and they loved him.

We mourn with Elaine, Ian and Kylie and thank Gordon for his work and for his friendship. He will be much missed.

HOCKEY INTERVARSITY REPORT

The Commonwealth Bank Hockey Intersivity finished last week with a dinner for 500 occupying almost the entire Union Building. It was a great week of sport, the weather being idyllic for the duration.

In the men's teams ANU defeated Sydney 2 - 0 to win the coveted Syme Cup. Our own team came third, losing to the champions, ANU at the semi-final.

In the women's teams Queensland defeated Sydney in a close fought match which was still a "1" all draw after 3 periods of extra time. The tie was broken when Queensland were declared winners on the penalty strokes.

Our own women's team played their best games ever in an Intersivity, finishing 5th. They were unlikely in the draw for the pools ending up in the stronger of the two women's pools which contained the two grand finalists. They lost 2-1 to Queensland and 2-0 to Sydney in the pool matches.

Congratulations go to Wollongong's Paul John and Barry Reid (Vice-Captain) who were selected in the AUSA combined men's team; and to Margaret Coleman, Jenene Sellars, Jill Onley, Julie Summers, and Nicky Brodbeck who were selected in the Combined Australian Universities Women's Team.

Congratulations also to the Commonwealth Bank and the BHP Group of Companies, who sponsored this largest of all the Intersivity competitions in Australia.
