TASC Investigation of Slatyr Report

By Tom Jagtenburg

The Australia Science and Technology Council (ASTIC) has recently published a document which endorses the broadening of Australia's involvement in the proliferation of the nuclear industry, both at home and abroad. This document, "Australia's Role in the Nuclear Fuel Cycle" was commissioned by the Prime Minister and prepared by a committee of academics and businessmen with Professor R.O. Slatyr of the ANU as Chairman. With the ALP national convention only a few weeks away, the "Slatyr Report" has been published at a very strategic moment in the development of ALP policy about our involvement with countries already intent on the production of nuclear weapons and the general expansion of the nuclear industry. In addition to the timing of the document (it was prepared in short order and timed to appear so close to the ALP conference that it gives very little time for expert assessment of its recommendations), the report also raises a number of serious issues about the giving of expert advice to governments when matters of such gravity are at issue.

This week a working party of members of The Centre for Technology and Social Change was formed to prepare a document in response to the Slatyr Report. It is intended that a collaborative document which provides a critique of the ASTEC proposals and presents other relevant expert opinion on the subject be prepared. The TASC report will provide expert opinion on the subject of Australia's involvement with the uranium industry and an analysis of this process of government decision making. TASC invites any interested parties to contact either Dr. Tom Jagtenburg (Sociology), or Dr. Jim Falk (HPS). Advice, information, suggestions or general support are all welcome.

WITTON APPOINTED TO POPULATION COUNCIL

Dr. Ron Witton of the Centre for Multicultural Studies has been appointed to the National Population Council, a high powered Commonwealth body that advises the Government on immigration and labour market requirements in Australia.

The National Population Council has been established by the Minister for Immigration and Ethnic Affairs, Mr. Stewart West, and it replaces the former Australian Council on Population and Ethnic Affairs.

Dr. Witton's appointment recognizes the important work that the Centre for Multicultural Studies is currently undertaking in the field of immigration.

EXCITING DEVELOPMENTS IN THE VISUAL ARTS by John Eveleigh, Senior Lecturer in Fine Arts

In addition to the Music and Drama facilities the School of Creative Arts has a rapidly growing Visual Arts facility including Ceramics, Drawing and Painting, Jewellery, Print Making, Sculpture and Textiles. For example at the beginning of this Session there was a simple Painting Studio - there are now three and the setting up of a superb Sculpture Studio with the nationally famed Sculptor Bert Flugelman responsible for this area of study is a recent addition.

One of the unique features of the School of Creative Arts is that a student studying one art form as a major subject must minor in a second - say majoring in Sculpture and minoring in Music - or Drama and Ceramics. Thus we have a crossing of barriers.

The Associate Diploma Course has been operational for some time. The Bachelor of Creative Arts Course as just described started under the Head of School, Professor Cowie, last March.

Barely sixteen weeks into the course and inspite of given difficulties, as incomplete studios were not initially available; Bachelor of Creative Arts students are holding their first end of session exhibition in the large first floor corridor of Building 25 and in the new ground floor Painting and Sculpture Studios. An exhibition to be previewed on Wednesday, 20th June, from 7.30 to 9 p.m. and to be opened by Professor Cowie at 8 p.m., the exhibition with given works for sale will be open thereafter on Thursday, June 21st from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday, 22nd June from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

University staff and students thus have an opportunity to see the first public exhibition of Bachelor of Creative Arts Students and to evaluate what were hitherto empty cloister spaces now converted into practical Fine Art Studios.

Plans are in hand to create internal gallery spaces in Building 25 - to be used by students, staff, Australian Artists and craftspersons, indeed Artists living abroad.

Only last weekend Don Harper, the internationally famed Jazz violinist gave a public concert in the School of Creative Arts with his Quartet playing alongside students from the Conservatorium and from the School of Creative Arts - which was in turn videoed by one of the Bachelor of Creative Arts students as a permanent record.

It is also hoped that the School of Creative Arts may provide the initiative to mount the first sculpture exhibition of the works of Henry Moore - the world's foremost living sculptor and such painters as Nolan and Boyd.

Thus links will be increasingly established whereby the School of Creative Arts serves both the University as a whole and the public at large.

So, as these plans unfold, pop up on Thursday, 21st June or until noon on Friday, 22nd and keep abreast of current developments.

AUSTRALIAN UNIVERSITIES' INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

The April Newsletter of the AUIDP is displayed on the "Campus News" Notice Board in the Administration Annexe.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR 1985 INTAKE OF PRIVATE OVERSEAS STUDENTS

The Ministers for Immigration and Ethnic Affairs, Foreign Affairs and Education and Youth Affairs have announced the arrangements for the 1985 intake of private overseas students.

The Ministers said that the Government was considering the recommendations made in the Goldring Report on Overseas Student Policy, and was also looking at broader aspects of the overseas student programme in the context of its overseas development assistance, education and other policies.

The Ministers said that the recommendations of the Jackson Report on Australia's Overseas Aid would also need to be considered.

A task force of officials from interested Departments, chaired by the Department of Education and Youth Affairs, has been established to assist the Government in these processes.

Accordingly, it has been agreed by the Ministers that implementation of any possible new policies would need to be delayed until next year, when students would be applying to come to Australia for the 1986 academic year.

The Ministers said that as it was now too late to implement new arrangements for 1985 entry, it had been further agreed that the overseas student intake for 1985 would be carried out under existing arrangements and procedures.

The Ministers agreed that the number of new students entering Australia next year would be limited to 3,500, the same quote as last year. This number comprises, as it did last year, 2,000 secondary entrants and 1,500 tertiary entrants. Additionally, any overseas students completing secondary studies in Australia this year will be allowed to proceed to tertiary studies in 1985, if they obtain enrolment.

The Ministers said the number of places offered to overseas students reflected a balance between Australia's desire to assist other countries, and the demands of local students for tertiary places.

Australian missions overseas are being instructed to begin processing applications for 1985 entry immediately.

DID YOU KNOW that the University needs the support of its graduates and that this can be delivered through the Graduates Committee of the Friends of the University?

Membership of the Graduates Committee is open to all members of Convocation for $10.00 p.a. or $40 for Life Membership.

STUDENTS TO QUIZ ACADEMICS

Year 12 students from 220 schools in the Sydney Metropolitan and South Coast areas are being given an opportunity to quiz academics during Introduction Day at the University of Wollongong, on Thursday 14 or Friday 15 June.

Attendance at the traditional Year 12 Introduction Day increased considerably in 1983 and many sessions were over crowded, so this year the programme is being repeated over two days to give students the opportunity to ask more individual questions.

Many Sydney schools indicated an interest in sending groups to Introduction Day, reflecting the increased participation in University of Wollongong courses by Sydney students.

Students are attending introductory lectures in the subjects that interest them the most, touring the campus, watching laboratory demonstrations, seeing video films and operating computer terminals.

School leavers who are going on to University find it useful to attend Introduction Day, as they are given information that will be useful to them in making decisions that could affect future career paths.

Letters

Dear Sir,

It has been brought to my attention that there is a proposal to form a go-cart club at the University and that consideration is being given to possible sites on campus for a racing track.

I have discussed this matter with a librarian, who is naturally concerned at the possibility that such a facility may be provided at the rear of the Library. Although I believe go-carts are quite small, the noise of several of them could well prove distracting to people using the Library, as I'm sure you will appreciate. Furthermore, this librarian has asked me to bring to your attention that since the landscaping of the campus the terrain at the rear of the library would be more suitable to motor-cross than to go-cart racing. The area is, in any case, a water-course and could well become a quagmire for some part of the go-cart season, whenever that is.

There is no doubt that regular go-cart contests would cheer an unhappy campus, especially if a stand and floodlighting were provided, although personally I would favour a dog-track, if that was practicable.

However, as my preference is likely to be a minority one, might I suggest that a cinder surface could be provided around the perimeter of the sportsfield. Floodlights and other necessary facilities could then be of use, at some future date, to other sporting activities, such as stock-car racing and trotting.

14th June, 1984.

Yours faithfully,
R.G.T. Southall.
