NEW ADMISSIONS POLICY INCLUDES INCREASED ENTRY LEVELS

The University of Wollongong has announced a new admissions package for 1988 which includes increases in minimum entry levels and attractive incentives for good-quality students.

In a recent letter to schools, principals and careers advisers were notified of the following changes.

Student enrolments at the University have increased dramatically in recent years from 3,000 in 1981 to over 8,000 this year. Fifty-four per cent of the 1987 intake came from the Sydney area. Entry levels for universities and colleges are usually set in January when the Higher School Certificate results have been determined. The rapid growth and increased popularity of The University of Wollongong would have inevitably resulted in raised entry levels. It was decided to set these levels and announce them early to give students the opportunity to make realistic decisions for next year and facilitate orderly planning. Minimum entry levels will range from 269 to 320 based on the Seneta Scaled Aggregate.

Guaranteed entry for some students

To assist students to plan their future programs of study with greater certainty, applicants with an aggregate of at least 340 and the necessary prerequisites will be guaranteed admission to Applied Science, Commerce and Education (Physical and Health). Guaranteed entry to all other courses will require an aggregate of at least 300. Priority for admission below the guaranteed entry level, if places are available, will be given to the best-qualified applicants in descending order of aggregate until the quota for each course is filled or until the minimum entry level is reached.

Scholarships for meritorious students

Apart from ten undergraduate scholarships of $1,100 each currently available on merit to applicants on their first-year enrolment, the University is offering six further scholarships to meritorious students. These scholarships are to be determined on the basis of the trial Higher School Certificate examination and offer generous benefits for full-time study, including fees, accommodation and a living allowance.

The Acting Vice-Chancellor, Professor Ian Chubb, said 'These initiatives should make entry more assured for those students whose HSC aggregates are adequate for the course they seek to enter. The University also recognises that it has a particular responsibility to the Illawarra community and has set up special arrangements within its new admissions policy to make tertiary education more accessible for students attending Illawarra schools'.

Professor Chubb is available for comment. Contact Gillian Curtis (Media Liaison) (042) 270926.

General Notices

HSC WINTER VACATION PROGRAM

A highly successful HSC Program organised by the Centre for Continuing Professional Education was held at the Pentagon recently.

A great subject range was presented by lecturers who were selected from teachers suggested by the Department of Education.

Some 450 participants from all over NSW gained additional skills towards their final exams. Some students stayed at Weerona and found it much to their liking.

CANCER APPEAL—A—THON

The University Secretary, Mr Ken Baumber, has received the following letter from the Co-ordinator of the Cancer Appeal-a-thon.

'Now that the Cancer Appeal-a-thon is almost over, I would like to thank all the employees in your organisation who contributed to its success by making regular donations from their pay.

The payroll deduction schemes instituted around the Illawarra raised, in total, over $300,000 towards our target of $1.5 million.

You will, I'm sure, be as delighted as we are that the Appeal has been successful and $1.5 million is safely invested until the Linear Accelerator can be purchased. We understand from the Department of Health that the new building may be completed by 1991, at which time the machine will be purchased and installed in the Radiotherapy Unit.

Any further monies raised, and any interest accruing over and above the money required for the accelerator, will be put towards the purchase of another essential machine for the radiotherapy unit, a simulator. If we can purchase a simulator, cancer patients can have their radiotherapy planned here in the Illawarra, as well as receiving their treatment on the Linear Accelerator.

Be assured that the donations of your employees have been very much appreciated, and we will continue to work towards the early installation of this vital equipment at Wollongong Hospital.

Vivien Twyford,
Co-Ordinator.

DO YOU HAVE READING AND WRITING DIFFICULTIES?

The University of Wollongong is looking for adult volunteers with reading and writing difficulties who are willing to participate in a program which puts into practice the latest theories for teaching dyslexic adults to read and write.

All applications will be treated in strictest confidence.

For further information contact The Secretary, Centre for Studies in Literacy, The University of Wollongong, phone 270973.

LANGUAGES IN TERTIARY EDUCATION

A public discussion on the role of languages in tertiary education was held at Monash University yesterday, Monday August 10.

It was arranged to mark National Languages Week, called by the Australian Federation of Modern Language Teachers' Associations to draw attention to the publication of the National Policy on Languages.

A special guest speaker was Mr Joe Lo Bianco, of the Commonwealth Schools Commission, whose subject was 'The place of languages in universities under the National Policy on Languages'.

CSIRO BOARD INTRODUCES MAJOR REORGANISATION

The Chairman of CSIRO, Mr Neville Wran QC, has announced that CSIRO — Australia's largest research body — is to undergo a major reorganisation aimed at placing greater emphasis on the link between scientific research and its economic and social benefits to Australia.

Mr Wran said: 'The changes are designed to ensure that CSIRO plays a major role in the development of Australia's manufacturing and technological capacity in the years ahead.'

The Board's decision is an historic step which recognises the intrinsic role of fundamental research, while at the same time declaring that CSIRO will be contributing strongly to the current restructuring of Australian industry.

He said that under the reorganisation:

- the existing CSIRO structure of 41 divisions grouped into five institutes will be changed to 32 divisions grouped into six institutes;
- the new divisions and institutes will be more closely allied to industry and community groups;
- there will be tighter monitoring of research to maximise its economic or social value to the Australian community, while maintaining the scientific excellence for which CSIRO has a world-wide reputation;
- the divisions and institutes will perform much more of their own administrative work, reducing the number of tasks performed at the CSIRO corporate centre in Canberra and cutting red tape;
- line management will be strengthened by giving chiefs of divisions and directors of institutes greater authority while at the same time being made more accountable for their decisions and efficient use of resources;
- a vigorous program of management training will be introduced;
- and the corporate centre will be streamlined.

Mr Wran stressed that the main role of CSIRO would continue to be to perform long-term research which is beyond the capabilities of individual Australian companies or agencies.

He said the Board had rejected any simplistic view of the organisational needs of CSIRO. The Board has opted for a fundamental reorganisation designed to relate CSIRO's outstanding research and scientific skills to the longer-term needs of Australia and to the needs of specific industries.

A project team would be established to implement the reorganisation following the appointment of directors. The Board's decision is that the fundamental changes should go ahead quickly.

INTERNATIONAL LUNCHEON

Approximately 80 guests attended a lunch held recently at International House, the student hall of residence. Dishes ranging from an exotic Egyptian dessert to the not-so-humble hand-made sausage were expertly prepared and presented by students representing the many nationalities living in the house. The function was sponsored by the National Australia Bank. Official guests included representatives from the bank as well as Board of Management members, Professor Murray Wilson, Olwyn Wilson and Dr John Panter.

The cuisine was of a high standard — satisfying even the most discerning of palates.

RELAXATION AND STRESS MANAGEMENT

A new course will begin on Monday August 17 from 7 to 9 pm at the Northern Lounge in the Union Building. The basic program is of eight weeks duration and is divided into theory and practice.

Topics covered are the stress factors in the mind, emotions, body, nutrition, environment. Skills taught and practised are dynamic relaxation meditation, concentration, breathing, visualisation affirmations, Hatha yoga.

The aim of the program is to teach participants the causes and effects of stress in their lives and to give them as many techniques as possible to manage stress under all circumstances and situations. The classes take a maximum of 20 people, so there is no lack of individual attention. Each night includes a period of deep relaxation.

The program will continue until mid-December. Cost of the basic eight weeks is $50, less $10 deposit then $7 for each separate evening.

It is entertaining, informative and very practical. All welcome. Bookings and inquiries — Jonathon, Active Development and Motivation, (042) 289704.

Changing Face of the Campus

TWO NEW BUILDINGS STARTED

This article, looking at the dramatic changes to the face of the campus as new buildings are completed and others started almost, it seems, by the week, is intended to be the first of a regular series.

Two new building projects were started on campus on Monday July 20 — the Science Teaching Laboratory and a Store. The buildings will be constructed next to each other in the area between the Science Wing of the new Engineering/Science Building and the Landscape Building. In fact, the Store will be an addition to the existing Landscape Building.

Both projects have been designed by architects Graham Bell and Bowman Pty Ltd, and will be constructed by Burnshaw Constructions Pty Ltd. Although the projects are separate for contractual and financial purposes, they will, for all other purposes, be treated as one project. The buildings are due for completion on 12 December 1987.

The Science Teaching Laboratory is a two-story building of approximately 1,000 sq m. Level 2 (upper level) will contain a large laboratory with the capacity to accommodate up to 150 students and will be used for the teaching of first year Chemistry and Biology classes. Preparation rooms and store rooms for both Chemistry and Biology will also be provided. Level 1 will eventually be used as research laboratories but due to lack of funds only the small entrance foyer to the building, toilets and a store will be constructed at this time. The balance of the lower level will be completed as funds become available. Funds and the remainder will be from the University's General Development Fund.

The Store Building will partially replace the old storage shed which was located near the new Western Entrance. Half of the old shed has been removed; the second half will go when the new store is completed.

The new store will provide approximately 400 sq m of space and will house the Central Store and the Maintenance Carpenters' Timber Store. The budget for this building is $180,000. Funds are being provided from the University's Special Services Fund and from Minor Works.

K.E. Turnbull
Manager, Buildings and Grounds

EEO STATISTICAL FORMS

Since the inception of the EEO Management Plan, it has been necessary to produce a number of forms to provide annual statistics on recruitment, selection committee membership, attendance at staff development courses, and composition of committees for our Annual Report to the Director of Equal Opportunity in Public Employment.

There seems to be some misunderstanding among staff that once they have completed one of these forms, it covers them for every committee or course they attend. This is NOT the case. For each selection committee, staff development course or university committee, a new set of forms is required.

We realise that this can be a bit of a nuisance, but in order to document our progress, we need everyone's co-operation.

WENDY RICHARDSON'S 'WINDY GULLY' A TRIUMPH

Windy Gully, a play by Wendy Richardson, a student on campus majoring in English Literature and Drama, opened at Bridge Street Theatre on June 4 to critical acclaim.

A community drama, maintaining Theatre South's policy of developing and presenting plays which draw upon the lives and experiences of local people, Windy Gully is set at the turn of the century in the close-knit mining village at Mt Kembla. The Sun-Herald drama critic, Mick Barnes (14 June 1987) found much to admire in the production:

This is a fine first play by someone who both knows and feels her subject. Richardson is steeped in coalfields folklore. She was raised in the Hunter Valley, has taught school in Mt Kembla, and still resides there. Her writing comes from the heart.

The play evokes the texture of the daily lives of those 'on the coal' and their families. The Mt Kembla Mine Disaster of 31 July 1902 in which 96 lives were lost, provides a dramatic focus for the struggle between men who risked their money and men who risked their lives.

In writing the play Wendy Richardson used as one of her major sources the local people themselves. Their response has been overwhelming, justifying Wendy's efforts to capture the essence of that sad but brave period. All sections of the community have been moved both by the play's poignancy and its humour.

The play's initial four-week season has had to be extended to accommodate capacity crowds, breaking all records for attendance at the Bridge Street Theatre. Special extra matinee performances have been added to meet demands from local high schools.

The play has been sponsored by the Miners Federation and the response from the mining community generally has led to a proposal for a tour of the coalfields districts of New South Wales, Queensland and Victoria in 1988.

Theatre South's Artistic Director, Des Davis, a Senior Lecturer in the Department of English, directed the production. Much of its success stems from his manipulation in portraying more than 40 characters with just seven actors.

Already Wendy Richardson has begun work on her next play for Theatre South. This time the focus will be on the Depression of the 1930s and its impact on the Illawarra.
