CENTRE FOR MULTICULTURAL STUDIES AWARDED RESEARCH GRANTS

The University of Wollongong's Centre for Multicultural Studies is to carry out major research projects on parents sponsored as migrants by their sons and daughters living in Australia, on problems of drug and alcohol usage in ethnic communities, on ethnic small business and on multicultural education.

The Commonwealth Department of Immigration Local Government and Ethnic Affairs has commissioned the research on parental migration and is providing $50,000 for the project. The aim is to find out how parents of working age join into the workforce, and to examine any problems of social integration encountered by this group. A team of investigators led by Mr Michael Morrissey, Senior Research Fellow at the CMS, will interview about 400 migrants in Sydney and Melbourne. The results have to be ready in February 1988, to provide background information for working out the 1988-89 immigration-quotas.

The project on drug and alcohol use will involve an examination of Australian and international literature, interviews with community leaders and health professionals, and surveys based on community health centres in the Illawarra. In a second stage, the research team, led by Caroline Alcorso, Research Fellow at the CMS, will set up a pilot project designed to try out new approaches to counselling appropriate to different ethnic communities. The project will last two years, will employ a full-time research officer, and is to be funded with about $100,000 by the Commonwealth Department of Health.

In addition, the Centre has been awarded a grant by the Australian Research Grants Scheme to study ethnic small business in Sydney. The project group will be led by the Head of the CMS, Professor Stephen Castles, and will include colleagues from Sydney University and Kuringai College of Advanced Education. A further ARGs grant will allow an evaluation of multicultural education programs in Sydney schools. This work will be carried out by Centre Research Fellows Bill Cope and Mary Kalantzis.

Together with existing projects, these new grants bring the outside research funds raised by the CMS this year to nearly $200,000. Professor Castles said that these grants indicated growing community awareness of the need for research on the situation of Australia's ethnic communities, as well as recognition of the role of the Centre for Multicultural Studies. The CMS was established by the University in 1978, as a contribution to Wollongong's international community. It has become one of Australia's leading institutes for research on migration and ethnic affairs. Centre staff are also currently serving as advisers for the Office of Multicultural Affairs in the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet, and for the Committee to Advise on Australia's Immigration Policies. For further information contact Stephen Castles (042) 270780 or Michael Morrissey (042) 270448, Centre for Multicultural Studies, The University of Wollongong, PO Box 1144, Wollongong 2500.

ETHNIC AFFAIRS CO-ORDINATOR

Now that the University has had a reasonable time to consider requests and comments related to our Ethnic Affairs Policy Statement, it has become clear that much of the material is related to student matters rather than staff. Accordingly Trevor Brew, as the Senior Assistant Secretary responsible for Student Services, has been appointed Ethnic Affairs Co-ordinator replacing Sue Chapman.

Copies of our Ethnic Affairs Policy Statement were distributed towards the end of 1986. A comprehensive report on progress will be required by the end of June 1988 for the Ethnic Affairs Commission of New South Wales. Our Ethnic Affairs Policy Statement identifies a number of strategies which could be undertaken to improve our activity on the ethnic affairs front. Early in 1988 Academic Units will be asked to identify areas of progress or difficulty associated with their experience with these strategies.

For further information please contact Trevor Brew on ext 3906.

NATIONAL IDENTIFICATION SYSTEM

The ensuing letter has been received from the Australian Senate – from the Standing Committee on Legal and Constitutional Affairs.

The terms of reference referred to are too lengthy for inclusion in Campus News. But a copy may be obtained from Annette, at Planning and Marketing in the Administration Building.

I write to ensure that The University of Wollongong is aware that the Senate has referred to this Committee for inquiry and report the feasibility of and need for a national identification system and related matters.

The closing date for receipt of submissions is 11 December 1987. The Committee expects to conduct public hearings in February 1988, and is required to report on or before 1 May 1988.

The Committee would welcome submissions from your organisation, any other organisation with which you are in contact, and/or any of your members who may be interested in making individual submissions.

The terms of reference are printed on the reverse side of this letter.

As you will note, the terms of reference are extensive. Please feel free to address submissions only to particular clauses within the terms of reference.

Advertisement for this reference appeared in newspapers on October 31. The Committee wishes to invite a wide range of interested groups, organisations and individuals to provide submissions on this reference.

If you have any inquiries, please do not hesitate to contact me at Parliament House, Canberra.

SUPERANNUATION

Retirement Preparation Seminar – Wollongong

The State Superannuation Board has been conducting Retirement Preparation Seminars in Sydney and in some country locations since 1973.

The seminar extends over two days and covers social and financial aspects of retirement, including sessions on Health, Investment, Taxation, Estate matters, Superannuation and the Roll-Over Option.

The Board is currently surveying the South Coast region with a view to conducting a seminar on 21 and 22 January 1988 at Wollongong.

Fund members who were identified by the survey as being within two years of normal retirement age have been contacted in writing by the Board and invited to lodge their nomination.

Any Fund member, within two years of retirement (including Early Voluntary Retirement) who would be interested in attending a seminar in Wollongong on the above dates is invited to contact this office by writing to the Secretary, State Superannuation Board, GPO Box 4003, Sydney 2001 or by telephoning the Seminar Booking Officer on (02) 2382599.

Attendance and the grant of two days special leave is subject to University convenience and staff affected should ensure that leave will be approved.

It is emphasised that nomination to attend a Retirement Preparation Seminar does not commit a Fund member to retire at a particular time. Arrangements for retirement should be made with the University once firm plans have been finalised.

Information Session for Staff Eligible to Join Superannuation and Who Have Not Done So.

A representative from the State Superannuation Board will be visiting the University on Friday December 4 to speak to staff who are eligible to join the State Public Service Superannuation Fund, and who have not yet done so. This fund will be closed to new entrants from 1 April 1988.

The speaker wishes to remind staff of the benefits offered by the State Public Service Superannuation Fund before they find it too late to join. If sufficient numbers warrant it two sessions will be held, one in the morning and the other after lunch. Please advise Wendy Raikes, ext 3946 if you wish to attend.

ASSOCIATION OF COMMONWEALTH UNIVERSITIES 1988 FELLOWSHIPS

The Association of Commonwealth Universities offers a number of fellowships in two categories.

The first category, the Administrative Travelling Fellowships, is intended to offer opportunities for senior officers already established in their administrative careers to attend brief and intensive training programs and/or to visit other countries of the Commonwealth and study matters of professional interest to themselves, their universities, and the university system in their country. Of course, an application for the Fellowship could be considered in conjunction with an application for the University's Development Leave for General Staff program.

The other category, the Senior Travelling Fellowships, is aimed at the professional advancement and reinforcement of those leaders of the academic community who are responsible for starting or developing a major enterprise in their university or among universities in their region, by providing opportunities, for example, to visit other institutions or attend an appropriate course overseas.

Full details on the eligibility, value, conditions and method of application for the Fellowships are available from Wendy Raikes, ext 3946. Applications for either category of the Fellowships must be submitted initially to the University by December 1.

THE AUSTRALIAN ELIZABETHAN THEATRE TRUST PLAY AWARD

The Australian Elizabethan Theatre Trust has announced its Bicentennial Play Award. The award carries with it a prize of $6,000 and will be presented to an original Australian play of wide public appeal and the potential for future production.

The award evolved from a secondary-school competition sponsored by the Australian Elizabethan Theatre Trust's Adelaide committee in 1978. The enormous response to these competitions made it obvious that the scope of participation needed to be widened to include adult writers and since this humble beginning the play award has been bi-annual.

Writers seeking to enter must be Australian citizens. Scripts will be received until April 1, with the winner announced in September 1988. It is anticipated that a workshop of the successful play will take place before the close of the Bicentennial year.

Entry forms and conditions of entry from: Australian Elizabethan Theatre Trust, Australian Content Department, 153 Dowling Street, Potts Point, NSW 2011.

EEO news...

For those of you who have previewed the Initial Report on Affirmative Action, I would like to respond to some concerns.

The report has been compiled for the first time this year to fulfil the University's requirements under the Federal Affirmative Action Legislation. The data base (and the 1987 strategies) are the same as used in the first annual EEO report which was endorsed by Council in June this year.

Comments on accomplishments to date are necessarily brief as this first report is designed to provide a 'snap shot' of the University as we begin to fulfil our obligations under this new piece of legislation.

At the moment, the federal and state authorities are negotiating to remove the redundancy of reporting to two separate agencies in somewhat different formats. It is to be hoped that this will be resolved for the 1988/89 reporting period. In the meantime, we are working on our 1987 EEO report for the Office of the Director of Equal Opportunity in Public Employment.

Books and Reading

THE CONSENT THEORY

A book by Dr Harry Beran, Senior Lecturer in Philosophy at The University of Wollongong, has just been published. The Consent Theory of Political Obligation, in the International Series in Social and Political Thought, is published by Croom Helm (London, New York, Sydney). We have not seen the book. The dust-jacket, however, tells us:

The theory that political obligation and authority are derived from the consent of citizens is commonly accepted in the history of Western political thought. It is expressed in the famous assertion of the American Declaration of Independence that governments derive 'their just powers from the consent of the governed' and in the constitutions of some Western powers.

This book provides the first systematic and comprehensive restatement and defence of consent theory since the 19th century. It distinguishes consent from contract theory, examines what the actual consent of citizens can consist in and what place it must have in liberal democratic theory. The consent theory's relationship with ethics is explored and the major objections to the theory are countered. The author points to some political reforms which would increase the proportion of citizens in liberal democracies whose consent places them under political obligation. The book provides an overview of the current state of the consent theory of political obligation and authority.

NEW BOOK ON DALFRAM BOYCOTT

A book offering a new approach to the famous 1938-39 Dalfram pig-iron boycott on Port Kembla wharves and its impact on Australia was launched by Cabinet Minister and local MHR Stewart West at the Illawarra Leagues Club on October 30.

The author is Rupert Lockwood, journalist of international and national experience and of activities that were sometimes controversial, who claims a special interest in the movement to deny war materials to Japan.

Lockwood observed and wrote on Japanese war preparations when he was a newspaper executive in pre-war Singapore and Reuter's news agency correspondent for Singapore-Malaya. He also mentions in the book humiliations suffered at the hands of Japanese invaders of Manchuria and North China when he was a roving correspondent in Asia.

Back in Canberra after serving in Asia, as a correspondent in the Spanish Civil War and reporting on Hitler Germany and Mussolini's Italy, he seriously prejudiced his newspaper career by insulting Robert Gordon Menzies, then Attorney-General, over his coercion of Port Kembla pig-iron boycotters, at the December 1938 annual press gallery dinner. The incident is described in the book, entitled War on the Waterfront.

Among subjects discussed in the book are:

- The pig-iron ban and wide public support signalled a turning point in Australian attitudes to Asians, particularly to Chinese.
- The strength of the pro-Japanese lobby at this time (names, economic interests, organisations are given) reflected another turn-around — in trade and diplomatic strategies, away from the steadily falling British market to the rapidly growing Japanese market.

- Psychiatric abuse, censorship — including closing down Radio 2KY, and police intimidation among anti-boycott strategies.

- Rights of citizens to place conscience and morality above the dictates and laws of governments: Menzies' submission that 'the essence of democracy' was obedience to elected governments was challenged not only on Port Kembla wharves but by ex-Governor-General Sir Isaac Isaacs, the Anglican Church Standard and clergymen, including several bishops. The chapter 'Conscience Above Law' in the book has relevance in the era of the Australian Card, government environmental vandalism, export of uranium, foreign military bases and other vital issues.

- Double standards in Australian international and domestic policies: those providing aid and comfort to the aggressor between the 1931 Manchurian seizure and Pearl Harbour could enjoy continued recognition as patriots. Even Australian journalists whose broadcasts for the Japanese were monitored in wartime went scot-free; Japanese spies and those selected to rule Japanese-occupied Australia enjoyed official hospitality and immunity from war crimes tribunals. Treatment for those associating with an ally of unpopular ideology and conduct was very different. (Lockwood here has a subjective interest because of his involvement in the Petrov affair and persecution of his innocent young daughters). As Sir Isaac Isaacs and the Church of England journal complained, the BHP could ship or not ship pig-iron to Japan, but that freedom was not enjoyed by Port Kembla watersiders.

The Port Kembla ban encouraged emergence of a substantial force for citizens to counter the appeasement lobby of the times — leading churchmen and academics, civil libertarians, some ex-service groups, businessmen, trade unions and Labor Party branches (though Curtin and other Labor leaders backed Menzies' attitude).

Lockwood, who ended his journalistic career as editor of the watersiders' paper, Maritime Worker, visited Port Kembla-Wollongong to interview Dalfram boycott survivors, and has reported trade union action, local community help to the boycotters, and for-and-against responses in detail. Information (much of it still restricted) derived from the 305 boxes of documents taken from the Japanese Consulate in Sydney — colours a strange chronicle of pre-war Japanese planning and contacts.

On Sunday November 22 at 7.30 pm the Society will present two of the most talented young jazz musicians in the country — Graham Jesse and Michael Bartolomei with special guest-artist, George Golla.

George Golla has formed a wonderful partnership with the great Don Burrows, arguably Australia's best known jazz personality. Golla is regarded as the country's best known and finest jazz guitarist.

On November 28 Ms Moore will perform the Piano Concerto No. 1 by Brahms, one of the greatest and grandest of all the big nineteenth century piano concertos. John Wayne Dixon will conduct the orchestra in a program that also includes the Beethoven Eighth Symphony and the popular Rosamunde overture by Schubert.
