BHP-Uni links reviewed

A seminar was held at the University on 5 March involving senior executives from the University and BHP Slab and Plate Products Division to discuss issues relevant to the future direction of technical, commercial and business activities at BHP.

The aim was to raise the awareness at the University of BHP's business direction with the view to linking some of the University's academic and research plans.

Presentations were made by executives from BHP Human Resources Division, Hot Rolled Products, Technology, Ironmaking, Finance and Planning, Organisation Development, Tin Mill Products and Maintenance Services.

The seminar revealed areas of common interest in, predictably, Engineering and Commerce, but future possibilities for cooperation were also identified in Health and Behavioural Sciences and Education.

Another meeting is planned at which the University will present its strategic plan and a considered response to how the University can assist BHP to achieve its goals.

The occasion was also an opportunity for University staff to meet BHP's new Group General Manager, Mr

Paul Jeans, who recently replaced Mr Graham Parker.

Mr Jeans joined BHP as an Engineering trainee in 1959. He has served in many senior positions including:

- Group General Manager Rod & Bar Products Division BHP Steel 1991-93;
- Group General Manager Wire Products Division BHP Steel 1989-91;
- General Manager BHP Engineering 1985-89;
- Chief Executive Officer BHP Aerospace & Electronics 1988-89;
- Executive Manager Operations BHP Engineering 1984-85;
- Manager BHP Engineering 1980-84.

He is an Honorary Governor of the Warren Centre for Advanced Engineering, University of Sydney and a Member of the Chancellor's Panel, University of Sydney.

Scholarship winners announced

On Thursday 4 March at a ceremony in the Union Function Room 28 outstanding students from across the state were announced as winners of University and industry sponsored scholarships to assist them to finance their studies.

The selection of scholarship winners is highly competitive and is based on the student's Higher School Certificate results and an interview. The winners had TER scores of between 91.9 and 99.55.

In the last few years, through the work of the University's Office of Development and Community Affairs, the University has increased significantly the number of scholarships offered; especially industry sponsored scholarships. (Detail and photos pages 4 and 5)

NOMINATIONS ARE invited from any staff member or unit of the University for the award of the Ethel Hayton Trophy.

The recipient of the award will be a unit or staff member who, in the last year, has initiated a notable activity or activities which enhanced community support for the University.

Ethel Hayton, a valued supporter of the University, commissioned Gino Sanguineti to create the trophy sculpture which symbolises the grand figtrees, previously a focal point on the University campus.

In 1986 the University's Vice-Chancellor accepted a recommendation by the Friends of the University that the sculpture be known as the Ethel Hayton Trophy.

The nominees for the trophy award will be interviewed by a member of the Committee of The Friends who will prepare a draft citation.

Senior representatives of the local media will then consider nominations and recommend to the Vice-Chancellor the citation for the award of the trophy which will be presented on University Day, May 10.

It is intended that involvement of the media will achieve wider publicity for the award and will provide an unbiased external view of the relationship of University activities to the community.

Nominations close on Tuesday, 6 April and are to be lodged at the office of the Friends of the University.

Korea University is planning to offer a two-week intensive teaching workshop for Australian academic staff from 5-16 July in Seoul.

Brief News

The plan is subject to funding, with a final program expected to be available later this month.

The workshop will feature introductory lectures on aspects of Korean society and culture, field trips, and intensive collaboration with Korean academic counterparts to assist participants to develop Korea-related academic course materials for use in undergraduate teaching programs in Australia.

The National Korean Studies Centre is seeking expressions of interest from academic staff teaching at Australian tertiary institutions who may wish to attend this workshop.

Participants will receive a round-trip economy air fare, and course-related expenses (including accommodation) will be borne by the hosting bodies.

Participants will need to provide evidence of their capacity to translate the knowledge gained through participation in the workshop into the offering of academic courses for credit.

The centre will consider proposals for participation from all academic fields, but preference will be given to proposals in the fields of the social sciences and humanities.

For application forms write to: The Executive Director, National Korean Studies Centre, PO Box 218, Hawthorn Vic 3122, from whom further information may also be obtained on tel. (03) 819 8608 or Fax (03) 819 8694.

The Copyright Agency Limited (CAL) has sent a reminder to universities that newspaper clippings are subject to copyright, and that except where copying is done for direct teaching purposes (in which case it will be picked up in the sample and paid for under the CAL licence agreements), copying of press cuttings for general circulation within the university is not covered by any of the existing agreements.

In addition, CAL has advised that not even the media monitor groups have a licence, and should universities buy copies or documents from media monitor firms they could in the long run be sued by the copyright owners should licences not be provided to such organisations.

Postgraduate students please note: Graduate House, located at 49 Northfields Ave (opposite the Union), is open for your convenience.

Graduate House provides a free service, offering tea, coffee, TV, computers and laser printing.

Hours are 9.30am to 10pm, Monday to Thursday, and 10.30am to 6pm Fridays.

A $1000 prize awarded by the Illawarra Area Health Service has been shared by two research projects at the University of Wollongong.

Rhonda Griffiths and Robert Moses were recognised for their ongoing research into diabetics at work, and Rohan Jayasuriya also of the Department of Public Health and Nutrition, was recognised for his research into managing asthma in accident and emergency departments.

The Student Enquiries Counter opening hours have been extended as follows in order to increase the level of administrative services provided to students at this often busy time of the academic year.

Week beginning 15 March: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday 8.30am-5.30pm; Thursday 8.30am-6.30pm; Friday 8.30am-5pm.

Thereafter each day 9am-5pm.

The University Cashier also has extended hours. Until 19 March the cashier will be open from 9am-5pm Monday to Friday.

Special series of seminars

The Department of Biological Sciences has organised a special series of 14 seminars during 1993 titled 'The Cell and Molecular Evening Seminar Series'.

Leading researchers throughout Australia in the field of Cellular Molecular Biology will visit the University to discuss their work and exchange views with the team in the Department of Biological Sciences who are working in the same field.

The first seminars in the series will be:

29 March: The Amrad-Pharmacia Seminar on Inflammation, given by Dr Caroline Gezy (Heart Research Institute, Sydney). 'Novel Chemotactic Mediator for Phagocytes'.

5 April: The Lab Supply Seminar on Cell Adhesion, given by Dr Chris Parish (John Curtin School of Medical Research, ACT). 'The Role of Carbohydrate Recognition in Lymphocyte Adhesion'.

10 May: The Calbiochem Seminar on Cell Signalling, given by Dr Michael Crouch (John Curtin School of Medical Research, ACT). 'How G Proteins tell cells where to go'.

Seminars will be held in Building 35 Room 105 from 8pm, with drinks to follow.

For further information please contact Ted Steele, ext. 3434, Mark Baker, ext. 3286 or Julie-Ann Green, ext. 3427.

1993 Fabrication Conference and Exhibition

The Welding Technology Institute of Australia (WTIA) and the Australian Institute for Non-Destructing Testing (AINDT) have combined their efforts to offer a joint conference and exhibition (FABCON/FABFAIR) on fabrication with the theme "Towards a Competitive Edge".

The event is supported by the New Zealand Institute of Welding and New Zealand Non-Destructive Testing Association.

FABCON/FABFAIR will take place at the University between 27 September and 1 October 1993.

It is the first time the Federal Council of the respective organisations have chosen the city of Wollongong and the University of Wollongong to host the event.

FABCON/FABFAIR 1993 coincides with the first year of operations of the new Co-operative Research Centre at the University with main activities including materials welding and joining as well as non-destructive testing and evaluation.

Both home and overseas delegates are expected to participate in the event which will mark Wollongong

An arts competition will form part of the FABCON/FABFAIR 1993 which has been arranged in conjunction with the Department of Creative Arts.

Three prizes of the order of $5000 will be awarded to students for the best artefacts mostly related to the scope of the event.

Details of the competitions will be released soon.

as the key place for fabrication technology related activities in Australia.

Organisations including ANSTO, BHP, CIGWELD, KK and S Instruments, Lincoln Electric, Sydney TAFE, WELDMART and Wollongong TAFE are directly involved in FABCON/FABFAIR 1993, while others are expected to sponsor the event.

FABCON/FABFAIR 1993 aims at providing a forum for interaction between practitioners, educators and researchers and the exchange of ideas and experiences in the areas of welding and joining, and non-destructive testing and quality evaluation.

The following topics will be covered: Education and Training; Productivity and Quality Management; Qualification and Certification; Computer Integrated Manufacturing; Technology Implementation; Advanced Welding Techniques; Advanced Quality Evaluation; In-Process Monitoring and Control; Productive Maintenance; Reliability and Risk; Artificial Intelligence and Health and Safety.

For further information contact the Conference Coordinator, WTIA/AINDT Conference 1993, ITC Training and Education Division, phone, (042) 26 8884.

Writers at children's literature gathering

Award-winning Australian novelists Brian Caswell and Libby Hathorn, and distinguished academic Rhonda Bunbury will be key speakers at the New Literatures Research Centre's second conference on Children's Literature, to be held at the University of Wollongong on Saturday 27 March.

With the theme 'Australian Children's Literature: Finding a Voice', the conference will explore the development of a uniquely Australian children's literature, from the 19th century to today.

The conference provides an opportunity for writers, academics, teachers, librarians and interested readers to come together to discuss current trends in children's literature and to hear from researchers in the field.

Delegates will come from several states to be part of the one-day conference, which will be held in the newly renovated Communications Building of the University.

The New Literatures Research Centre, located in the University's English Department, hosted its first Children's Literature Conference in 1991, when 180 delegates attended.

The Conference Papers were published by the Centre, under the title 'Children's Literature and Contemporary Critical Theory', edited by Michael Sone, the convenor of the 1993 conference.

Brian Caswell's first novel 'Merryl of the Stones' was named Honour Book in the 1990 Children's Book Council Children's Book of the Year Award, and he is the author of a collection of short stories, 'A Dream of Stars' and the highly praised 'A Cage of Butterflies'.

Libby Hathorn has won several awards in the Children's Book Council Book of the Year, for her books 'Thunderwith', 'The Tram to Bondi Beach', 'All About Anna' and 'Looking Out for Sampson'.

Rhonda Bunbury is a senior lecturer at Deakin University, and President of the International Research Society for Children's Literature.

Other papers to be presented will address the issues of the portrayal of Aborigines in children's literature, the 'voice' of the 'underclass', the colonial and post-colonial voices, and the voice of the adolescent.

Works discussed will range from 'Billy Bubbles' and 'Back to Billabong' to the latest works by Robin Klein and Brian Caswell.

The conference will run from 9am -5.30pm. Registration fee of $60 includes a buffet lunch.

Enquiries: Carmel Pass, Professional Officer, Department of English. Phone (042) 213226.
