3-11-1975

The Digger No.42 March 1975

Phillip Frazer

Helen Garner

Follow this and additional works at: http://ro.uow.edu.au/digger

Recommended Citation
http://ro.uow.edu.au/digger/42
The Digger No.42 March 1975

Description
Alan Roberts on how human activity is changing global climate; more CO2 will overheat the planet, and we're getting skin cancer from Freon destroying the ozone layer / Grant Evans reveals Indonesian plans to invade East Timor, with Australian acquiescence / ALP conference at Terrigal agrees to sell uranium overseas, and cedes more control of our economy to corporations / Feminist mystics believe a tsunami might soon engulf Sydney; some hope it does / miners strike at Nymboida NSW, women workers strike at Everhot stove plant in Bayswater Vic, and NSW builders labourers strike against BLF boss Gallagher and the Master Builders Association.

Publisher
High Times Pty Ltd, Melbourne, 12p
What is feminism?

WILL THE GREAT WAVE TAKE SYDNEY?

GRIM PREDICTIONS

Indonesia will invade Timor

Spraycans could be killing us all...

...or maybe Queensland's uranium will get us in the end
The Diggin!

by Alex Roberts

What do you diggin’? Just a quickie: or have we been effectively repulsed equal parts of our species? This is the invincible human desire for aerosol sprays and the earth’s ozone layer. If it were not for the rain forests, the earth’s atmosphere would be a toxic mixture of smoke, chemical waste, and other pollutants. This is the reason why we need to protect the rain forests, and why we need to do so now. The rain forests are a vital part of our ecosystem, and they are under threat.

Chasing down the nightmare of urban sprawl, the ideal situation would be to end the urban sprawl and to use sustainable materials and methods. The science behind the ozone layer is becoming more complex every day, and we need to understand the science behind it to prevent its destruction.

What are we doing to the earth’s climate? Are we heading for another great warming? If so, what can we do to prevent it? There are many reasons why we need to protect the rain forests. First of all, they are a vital part of our ecosystem. Second, they are a source of fresh water. Third, they are a source of food. Fourth, they are a source of medicine. Fifth, they are a source of tourism. Sixth, they are a source of climate regulation. Seventh, they are a source of carbon capture.

The atmosphere, which is the layer of gases that surrounds the earth, is made up of a mixture of gases. The most important gas is nitrogen, which makes up about 78% of the atmosphere. The next most important gas is oxygen, which makes up about 21% of the atmosphere. The remaining gases make up less than 1% of the atmosphere. The main greenhouse gases are carbon dioxide, methane, and nitrous oxide.

The earth’s climate is changing, and this is a major concern for humanity. The main cause of this change is the burning of fossil fuels, which releases carbon dioxide into the atmosphere. Carbon dioxide is a greenhouse gas, and it traps heat in the atmosphere, which leads to global warming.

We need to be aware of the climate crisis, and we need to take action to prevent it. The most effective way to do this is to reduce our carbon footprint. This can be done by using public transport, using bicycles, using electric cars, and using renewable energy sources such as solar and wind power.

In conclusion, the importance of the rain forests cannot be overstated. They are a vital part of our ecosystem, and they are under threat. We need to protect the rain forests, and we need to do so now. The science behind the ozone layer is becoming more complex every day, and we need to understand the science behind it to prevent its destruction.

Chasing down the nightmare of urban sprawl, the ideal situation would be to end the urban sprawl and to use sustainable materials and methods. The science behind the ozone layer is becoming more complex every day, and we need to understand the science behind it to prevent its destruction.
Earth News

The latest postage rise puls... reads: June 1965 by the Popular Front...

---

NEW PRICE RISE IN SUBS.

The latest postage rise puls... reads: Western Australia: Nota...

---

Defeated Eskimos

Replacement of the stage dock with... reads: The situation on the ninth floor...

---

Doleful office

The Digger has an even w... reads: I let alone the night...

---

7000 years after in Dhofar

The following document is... reads: their muscles atrophied completely.

---

Expanding Chile

LANCHO office owner opened a... reads: The suit in a West...

---

Jutta torture

Gudrun, Jäckel Andreas, h... reads: The success of any revolution must...

---

Book on the Cobb

The most elaborate... reads: The most elaborate and up to date collection of Ron Cobb's graphic novels ever released by Gold and Silver

---

Liberation

Did you feel the mo... reads: If we must name a human being...

---

Publisher: Published by High Times Pty Ltd, 220 Virginia Road, North Melbourne, Vic. 3051, Australia. Foreign Rights, Print and Web Rights, Sydney, Australia. Address: PO Box 77, 99 Glenferrie Road, Toorak, Victoria, 3142, Australia. Tel: 03 8689 0077. Fax: 03 8689 0078. Email: info@hightimes.com.au. Internet: www.hightimes.com.au

Address

Postcode

Name

Date

Earth News

The latest postage rise puls... reads: Took the moment...

---

NEW PRICE RISE IN SUBS.

The latest postage rise puls... reads: Took the moment...

---

Defeated Eskimos

Replacement of the stage dock with... reads: The situation on the ninth floor...

---

Doleful office

The Digger has an even w... reads: I let alone the night...

---

7000 years after in Dhofar

The following document is... reads: their muscles atrophied completely.

---

Expanding Chile

LANCHO office owner opened a... reads: The suit in a West...

---

Jutta torture

Gudrun, Jäckel Andreas, h... reads: The success of any revolution must...

---

Book on the Cobb

The most elaborate... reads: The most elaborate and up to date collection of Ron Cobb's graphic novels ever released by Gold and Silver

---

Liberation

Did you feel the mo... reads: If we must name a human being...

---

Publisher: Published by High Times Pty Ltd, 220 Virginia Road, North Melbourne, Vic. 3051, Australia. Foreign Rights, Print and Web Rights, Sydney, Australia. Address: PO Box 77, 99 Glenferrie Road, Toorak, Victoria, 3142, Australia. Tel: 03 8689 0077. Fax: 03 8689 0078. Email: info@hightimes.com.au. Internet: www.hightimes.com.au

Address

Postcode

Name

Date

Earth News

The latest postage rise puls... reads: Took the moment...

---

NEW PRICE RISE IN SUBS.

The latest postage rise puls... reads: Took the moment...

---

Defeated Eskimos

Replacement of the stage dock with... reads: The situation on the ninth floor...

---

Doleful office

The Digger has an even w... reads: I let alone the night...

---

7000 years after in Dhofar

The following document is... reads: their muscles atrophied completely.

---

Expanding Chile

LANCHO office owner opened a... reads: The suit in a West...

---

Jutta torture

Gudrun, Jäckel Andreas, h... reads: The success of any revolution must...

---

Book on the Cobb

The most elaborate... reads: The most elaborate and up to date collection of Ron Cobb's graphic novels ever released by Gold and Silver

---

Liberation

Did you feel the mo... reads: If we must name a human being...

---

Publisher: Published by High Times Pty Ltd, 220 Virginia Road, North Melbourne, Vic. 3051, Australia. Foreign Rights, Print and Web Rights, Sydney, Australia. Address: PO Box 77, 99 Glenferrie Road, Toorak, Victoria, 3142, Australia. Tel: 03 8689 0077. Fax: 03 8689 0078. Email: info@hightimes.com.au. Internet: www.hightimes.com.au

Address

Postcode

Name

Date

Earth News

The latest postage rise puls... reads: Took the moment...

---

NEW PRICE RISE IN SUBS.

The latest postage rise puls... reads: Took the moment...

---

Defeated Eskimos

Replacement of the stage dock with... reads: The situation on the ninth floor...

---

Doleful office

The Digger has an even w... reads: I let alone the night...

---

7000 years after in Dhofar

The following document is... reads: their muscles atrophied completely.

---

Expanding Chile

LANCHO office owner opened a... reads: The suit in a West...

---

Jutta torture

Gudrun, Jäckel Andreas, h... reads: The success of any revolution must...

---

Book on the Cobb

The most elaborate... reads: The most elaborate and up to date collection of Ron Cobb's graphic novels ever released by Gold and Silver

---

Liberation

Did you feel the mo... reads: If we must name a human being...

---
Playground takeover in Redfern

By Martin Morawski

Design Street has been destroyed. The police management of the violence on Sydney's north western edge has been described as an "outrage" by the lord mayor, and a "catastrophe" by the NSW Premier, and with the lowest average scores, the highest proportion of unemployed and factory workers and the highest crime rates and drug problems.

Hunter. Fender Hospital, to the horror of its back door crowds, tried to take the middle road. But on Friday night the hospital was whites only. For some reason, a scene of a family dispute with a white and a black man and a white and a black woman.

& Friends Hospital, a white and a black man and a white and a black woman.

The hospital had said Sydney Central said that it was involved considering

---

Playground takeover in Redfern

Note: This text is a fictional creation and does not represent real events.

---

Timor: "3000 Indonesian troops are on the move to invade Indonesia"

The Governor makes a "gentleman's agreement" with Indonesia that would be better for all concerned if Eastern Timor was occupied with the western half of the island already lightly settled.

Indonesia began to take a more aggressive stance towards the Timor issue. On March 11, the Indonesian Foreign Office, in response to a letter from Archbishop of East Timor, Mrs. Karen Susilo, requested that the government of Indonesia be informed of the presence of any military forces in the area.

The Indonesian position was that the presence of military forces in the area would be a violation of international law. However, the Indonesian government had already deployed troops to the area in order to protect itself against potential invasion from Portugal.

The Governor was faced with a difficult decision. He knew that a invasion from Indonesia would be a severe blow to his government and the people of East Timor. But he also knew that the Portuguese government was not likely to act on the threat.

In the end, the Governor decided to take no action. He knew that a direct confrontation with Indonesia would be disastrous. Instead, he decided to negotiate with Indonesia and come to some agreement that would be acceptable to both sides.

The Governor's decision was based on the fact that the Portuguese government was not likely to act on the threat. He knew that a direct confrontation with Indonesia would be disastrous. Instead, he decided to negotiate with Indonesia and come to some agreement that would be acceptable to both sides.

The Governor's decision was based on the fact that the Portuguese government was not likely to act on the threat. He knew that a direct confrontation with Indonesia would be disastrous. Instead, he decided to negotiate with Indonesia and come to some agreement that would be acceptable to both sides.

---

Excerpts from the daily papers over the past few months: The papers have been filled with reports of the growing tension in Eastern Timor. The government has been trying to keep the situation under control, but the public is becoming more and more concerned.

The official government newspaper: The government has been trying to keep the situation under control, but the public is becoming more and more concerned.

---

People are trying to move their troops and their propagandists begin to introduce the idea that they have a right to do so.

The government seems to be finding it difficult to control the situation in Eastern Timor. The people are becoming more and more restless, and the government seems to be finding it difficult to control the situation in Eastern Timor.
Without uranium, China, Japan, Indonesia, South Korea, and other countries will be unable to meet their energy needs. Uranium mining is a crucial component of China's national energy strategy, and the country's dependence on imported uranium has continued to grow in recent years. Despite the United Nations' efforts to curb nuclear proliferation, China has continued to expand its nuclear power capacity and uranium mining operations. The country's drive for energy security and economic growth has resulted in significant increases in uranium consumption, putting pressure on global markets and prompting concerns about the sustainability of China's nuclear energy development. In this context, the challenges facing China's uranium sector are complex and multifaceted, requiring careful consideration of environmental, economic, and geopolitical factors.
What is feminism?

By Rosalind Delmar

Feminism raises the question of the old sex war. The feminist becomes the figure of the3 casting woman. Feminism creates demands where none had existed before. It is not wise to think that perhaps we might not be living “happily ever after”. The feminist, in the3 determinate sphere of anti-feminism, free from psycho-social problems, is subsidised, unhappy and3 taking and taking on her personal inadequacy on the male sex.

Feminism is the political move3 ment of women. It is a revolt by the3 women against the kind of man they3 are. It is a revolt by the women for the3 prerogative which men have somehow seized in the past 100 years. Feminism places women in the position that has been always occupied by the men.

Women have been fighting for the vote. But the American move3 ment is now as politically distant as the French movement in the 19th century. This is not just a reaction to the suffragette struggle. It is a reaction to the falling into this stupid behaviour by the women. The women are prominent in the Paris Commune.

In prisons, felt themselves the inheri3
tors of the struggle at Peterloo.3

The idea of a woman fighting for the right of a child to be educated is now as politically remote as the idea of a man fighting for the right of a child to be educated. The idea of women forming political clubs and united on the demand for the vote — that is as remote from the idea of women having to be educated as the idea of men fighting for women having to be educated.

The second was social feminism.
The social feminists dedicated them3 selves in educational reforms, phalanx socialism and the like, to the liberal democracy. They compared their ideas being expressed as you are now expressing them to the ideas that may turn out to be half-true, is the chance to monopolise the conver3 sation about politics and I say Treasure and you believe me.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what is right and what is wrong. They are unable to say what
is true and what is false.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers
more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what
is right and what is wrong. They
are unable to say what
is true and what is false.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers
more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what
is right and what is wrong. They
are unable to say what
is true and what is false.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers
more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what
is right and what is wrong. They
are unable to say what
is true and what is false.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers
more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what
is right and what is wrong. They
are unable to say what
is true and what is false.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers
more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what
is right and what is wrong. They
are unable to say what
is true and what is false.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers
more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what
is right and what is wrong. They
are unable to say what
is true and what is false.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers
more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what
is right and what is wrong. They
are unable to say what
is true and what is false.

The feminist, in the descriptions of anti-feminists, often suffers
more than she needs to. The anti-feminists are impossible to understand. They are unable to point out to them
what is true and what is false, what
is right and what is wrong. They
are unable to say what
is true and what is false.
Martial and feminist for years, Ron Gleedon, a socialist position in Wellington and Mary and says "people, especially women, are happy about the possibility of the wave because they fear they're going to be knocked down if it's managed, so they're setting out to be a fair few people about the wave — they've been doing it for many years. The idea that a lot of us were pent up and left over "friends" were left in it. They describe the latter as "people for getting their thing, until 1945 — people thinking of doing something to make it better, to make it better. It's a whole new thing.

Basically the people who are into the wave will tell two categories. The Dispensationalists who like the idea of salvation. They are excited about the world getting better and make as a whole. The others are into Western Civilizations. They find a fairly secular existence and generally good in the world. The Mystics. These people have been drawn largely from spiritual power for some time. Many of them have gone off to the Old World. Their alternative is "turn your back on Western Capitalism and its products." and to attempt to live a self-sufficiently in the country. Their alternative is "turn your back on Western Capitalism and its products." and to attempt to live a self-sufficiently in the country.

Given that there's a chance of the wave coming but that it's only a possibility among people, we can see some people as talking about the wave's effect. That in fact, it's telling for more than one thing. First thing is that both the "dispensationalists" and the "territorial forces" is what they are in the wave's potential to provide a compass break with decadent western culture. Their alternative is "turn your back on Western Capitalism and its products." and to attempt to live a self-sufficiently in the country.

Breaking with the old cultures means different things to the two groups. They are both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea, but they're both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea. Breaking with the old cultures means different things to the two groups. They are both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea. But they're both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea. But they're both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea.

Marie and Jack are two people who have the opportunity to get out of their own situation. They have been living in the world for a long time and they are talking about the wave's effect. That in fact, it's telling for more than one thing. First thing is that both the "dispensationalists" and the "territorial forces" is what they are in the wave's potential to provide a compass break with decadent western culture. Their alternative is "turn your back on Western Capitalism and its products." and to attempt to live a self-sufficiently in the country.

They are both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea. Breaking with the old cultures means different things to the two groups. They are both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea. But they're both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea. But they're both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea. But they're both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea. But they're both talking about living in the Sydney Harbour area at Watsons Bay and drinking chamomile tea.
...and desperadoes agree

Great Wave cometh

anyone who stay behind to drink the champagne?

Maritime and feminist for years, Rose Cresswell joined a similar group to the one at Sydney University where she is a lecturer in the Department of Anthropology. She says they have been writing about their experiences as women in a changing world. They have been researching the role of women in history and politics, and the effects of modern technology on their lives. They are interested in the question of whether women can ever truly be free from oppression, and how they can work to achieve this.

The Great Wave is described as a catastrophic event that will destroy all civilization as we know it. It is foretold by religious texts and is believed to be a punishment for humanity's sins. The wave will be so powerful that it will engulf the entire planet, leaving only a few isolated communities untouched.

The wave is depicted as a symbol of the end of human history, and the beginning of a new era. Women are depicted as the only survivors, and they will be guided by wise leaders who will teach them how to live in this new world. The wave is seen as a way for women to gain power and control over their own lives, and to finally break free from centuries of oppression.

The Great Wave is also seen as a way for women to reclaim their place in society. They are depicted as the keepers of the flame of knowledge, and will be responsible for passing on their knowledge to the next generation. They are also seen as the ones who will be able to resist the forces of evil and darkness that will arise in the aftermath of the wave.

The wave is depicted as a dark and foreboding event, but it is also seen as a moment of renewal and hope. Women are depicted as the ones who will be able to rise above the chaos and rebuild a new world. The Great Wave is seen as a necessary step in the process of creating a more just and equitable society for all people.
Middle class drug addicts come out

by J.W. McLaughlin

Now that the great marijuana mail order campaign directed by the South Australian Dope Smokers' Union has closed action follows the big hit (see Digger No. 61), and the Union members have dug in and are listing major marijuana exploiters and the court case which they, with optimistic fervour, will stage a screen argument. In Adelaide, dope use is more than a pipe dream.

Certainly, in Australia, the [dope] problem is more than just an effect national and international experience and apparently the local situation with its delusions into campus organisations which, during the past couple of years, has been relatively free of dope. However, American dope talk wouldn't be downwards.

The [dope] talk would be handled by the old guard.
If we sack the women now, there won't be any sackings later
By Rose McCaffrey
Since February 24, ten women sacked from Everhot, a stove factory in Bayswater, Victoria, and men striking in support, have been battling through every gate. Equipped with bricks, chains, and sticks, they appear to be relaxing in the sun. But they are all beneath their democratic struggle to change the conditions on which they get their jobs back.

Above all, the dispute represents a refusal to be manipulated. "There's no point in working if we're being used," one woman says. "We won't just be silent." The struggle has grown into a widespread protest against the treatment of women in the workplace. Everhot is a case in point.

The women have all united around the theme of "women's rights now." They have not been without their share of setbacks. But the women are determined to fight on. If they have to miss the bus, they are not going to sit down and be hosed down by cops. They are ready to go on strike and even to risk arrest. They are determined to make a statement.

With the women now off work, the strike has entered a new phase. The women are no longer vying for attention. They are now vowing to fight for their rights. The strike has become a symbol of the women's struggle for equal treatment and equal pay. The women are not going to give in. They are determined to win.

The women have now begun to organize a series of public meetings. They are planning to hold a rally in the town centre next week. The women are determined to make their voices heard. They are not going to be silenced.

This is not the first time the women have tried to organize. They have been Suppressing the growth literature of the century, the women have been fighting for their rights for years. But they are not going to give up. They are determined to fight on.

The women have now begun to organize a series of public meetings. They are planning to hold a rally in the town centre next week. The women are determined to make their voices heard. They are not going to be silenced.

The women have now begun to organize a series of public meetings. They are planning to hold a rally in the town centre next week. The women are determined to make their voices heard. They are not going to be silenced.

The women have now begun to organize a series of public meetings. They are planning to hold a rally in the town centre next week. The women are determined to make their voices heard. They are not going to be silenced.

The women have now begun to organize a series of public meetings. They are planning to hold a rally in the town centre next week. The women are determined to make their voices heard. They are not going to be silenced.
No Federal tickets

by Sandra Zarkos

The NSW Builders' Labourers are facing the collapse of their movement again. An outstanding meeting of 2000 NSW BLs — and the office staff of their union — went through a series of motions at Sydney Town Hall last week. The meeting's main issue was the decision of the Federal Government to push all the blame on the NSW Government. The delegation to Canberra begins today. The Federal Government will meet again on Tuesday. The Federal Government's decision to push all the blame on the NSW Government will 'stick'.

The delegation to Canberra begins today. The Federal Government will meet again on Tuesday. The Federal Government's decision to push all the blame on the NSW Government will 'stick'.

Country king losing his queen

by Adam Jarvis

Steve Hackett is one of the most interesting examples of the American blues tradition. His playing is both powerful and subtle, and his songs are both simple and complex. His voice is strong, his guitar work is tight, and his songwriting is both imaginative and effective. His latest album, "The New" is a testament to his talent and creativity.
Tina and Ike's eyeball plucking music

by Terry Chinn

"Say, man, where's the beads, the wigged and madcap song and dance?" The starry-eyed Ike Turner had done it again.

"You should have asked as Tina Turner made her entrance, dressed corpiffy— but so have asked as Tina Turner made her entrance, dressed corpiffy— but so have asked as Tina Turner made her entrance, dressed corpiffy— but so have asked as Tina Turner made her entrance, dressed corpiffy— but so have asked..."

The blonde, so angelically brought, so preened, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed, so coiffed..."
Dole Daze

There's a job going up the front. An applicant will have to stand in line. The interviewer will ask questions. If you answer correctly, you will be offered a job. The queue here today consists of people who are queueing for jobs. If you queue for a job, you will be offered one.

Note: In the lines of people, there are some menu items. The menu items are: apple, sandwich, and water. If you are offered a job, you must choose an item from the menu.

Today I will seek the meaning of life. First thing happens... the kid's idea is a frog.

And for $50, I'd probably smart with the information.

Well... it's like this. I can't tell you. It's gotta come if you like inna trance... now you gotta go home and fill up yer bath with cold water. Oh an' lollipops and eat flies and stuff and that. Now've got some flies around haven't you. An' it'll come to you.

Well... the frog got rich... and the kid... Mmmm... Hey kids watch out for frogs!!