a new generation of historians on flight NZ449 (for Aroha) [poem]

Alice Te Punga Somerville

Follow this and additional works at: https://ro.uow.edu.au/ltc

Recommended Citation
Te Punga Somerville, Alice, a new generation of historians on flight NZ449 (for Aroha) [poem], Law Text Culture, 15, 2011, 185-186.
Available at:https://ro.uow.edu.au/ltc/vol15/iss1/10

Research Online is the open access institutional repository for the University of Wollongong. For further information contact the UOW Library: research-pubs@uow.edu.au a new generation of historians on flight NZ449 (for Aroha) [poem]

Abstract
it's complimentary happy hour on NZ449: little plates of cheese, and wine or beer in plastic cups smiling people who can serve us in english, french or japanese even though there's a koru on the tail of this plane.

This journal article is available in Law Text Culture: https://ro.uow.edu.au/ltc/vol15/iss1/10 a new generation of historians on flight NZ449 (for Aroha)

Alice Te Punga Somerville

it’s complimentary happy hour on NZ449: little plates of cheese, and wine or beer in plastic cups smiling people who can serve us in english, french or japanese even though there’s a koru on the tail of this plane.

asinine questions for subburbandog millionaires on a monday afternoon small hanging screens

a trivia game, an opiate for the masses cycling through a series of claims about the world:

which is further west: chad, oman or mali?

and it’s a dirty trick to play:
on a plane which speaks three languages
from north of the equator;
on a world that isn’t flat anymore,
where everywhere is further west than somewhere.
Somerville

a question about tommy solomon the last full-blooded moriori
and it’s a dirty trick to play:
    they expect noone from rekohu to decide between sav and merlot on this trip;
    a quiet dismantling,
    pruning unfruitful wood from national vines.

I have to fill this plane with other words.

writing on a sickbag, I wonder if these pencil marks would dissolve or be more stark if I filled the bag with what it is designed to hold:
liquefied wests, regurgitated lasts.

We are, after all, in a plane with a koru on its tail.

We have to fill this plane with other words.