A conceptual framework for understanding responsible leadership and presenteeism: the mediating influence of organizational commitment and employee turnover intentions

Amlan Haque
ajhaque@gmail.com

Mario Fernando
University of Wollongong, mariof@uow.edu.au

Peter Caputi
University of Wollongong, pcaputi@uow.edu.au

Publication Details
A conceptual framework for understanding responsible leadership and presenteeism: the mediating influence of organizational commitment and employee turnover intentions

Abstract
Presenteeism refers to reduced productivity caused by employees' ill health. Presenteeism has a substantial impact on productivity and imposes a significant economic burden to businesses and national economies. In 2010, presenteeism costed the Australian economy $AUD 34.1 and the United States economy $USD180 billion. The purpose of this paper is to develop a conceptual framework supporting the relationship between perceived responsible leadership and presenteeism, and the mediating role of organizational commitment and employee turnover intentions. Implications of this conceptual framework are discussed both in terms of future research directions and intervention strategies.

Keywords
presenteeism, leadership, responsible, understanding, framework, conceptual, employee, turnover, commitment, intentions, organizational, influence, mediating

Disciplines
Business

Publication Details

This conference paper is available at Research Online: http://ro.uow.edu.au/buspapers/659
A conceptual framework for understanding responsible leadership and presenteeism: the mediating influence of organizational commitment and employee turnover intentions

ABSTRACT

Presenteeism refers to reduced productivity caused by employees’ ill health. Presenteeism has a substantial impact on productivity and imposes a significant economic burden to businesses and national economies. In 2010, presenteeism costed the Australian economy $AUD 34.1 and the United States economy $USD180 billion. The purpose of this paper is to develop a conceptual framework supporting the relationship between perceived responsible leadership and presenteeism, and the mediating role of organizational commitment and employee turnover intentions. Implications of this conceptual framework are discussed both in terms of future research directions and intervention strategies.

Key Words: Leadership; Managing for impact