

ADDENDA & CORRIGENDA TO THE WOLLONGONG HERITAGE STUDY

I have recently become intrigued by the Allowrie Terrace building in Church St, Wollongong, just north of the Market Street intersection and diagonally opposite St Michael's Church.

The Wollongong Heritage Study gives an approximate date of construction but its one I've always been highly dubious about. The building itself is now graced with a sign stating 'Allowrie Terrace 1875'. This seems a more likely date to me but some of the architectural details of the much tartered up terrace suggest a much earlier date. Before I go to the trouble of a lot of difficult research, can any reader help with a reliable date of construction for this building.
