

1999

A ROUND

Jon Stallworthy

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ro.uow.edu.au/kunapipi>

Recommended Citation

Stallworthy, Jon, A ROUND, Kunapipi, 21(3), 1999.

Available at: <https://ro.uow.edu.au/kunapipi/vol21/iss3/17>

A ROUND

Abstract

Lead ore lifted from a Cornish mine, married in a furnace to Cornish tin, their one flesh pewter, a barnacled plate salvaged from the ribs of a ship of the line, in Cape Town market sold for a florin, bartered for biltong in the Free State, a farmer's wedding present for his bride to shine, until - with the wagon-team taken, the farm in flames - she cried as he melted it down, tilting its gleam to the lips of his bullet-mould, one of whose slugs would open a seam in a Cornish miner's son.

Jon Stallworthy

A ROUND

Lead ore lifted from a Cornish mine,
married in a furnace to Cornish tin,
their one flesh pewter, a barnacled plate
salvaged from the ribs of a ship of the line,
in Cape Town market sold for a florin, bartered for biltong in the Free State,
a farmer's wedding present for his bride to shine, until – with the wagon-team taken, the farm in flames – she cried as he melted it down, tilting its gleam to the lips of his bullet-mould, one of whose slugs would open a seam
in a Cornish miner's son.