

from a movie theatre in town,

In the house he built himself

A man with short brown hair, wearing a dark t-shirt and dark pants, is sitting in a green folding camp chair inside a blue tent. He is looking towards a rectangular projection on the tent wall. The projection shows a landscape with a blue sky and a body of water. The text "Middle Landscape" is overlaid on the projection in a white, cursive font. The tent has a blue interior and a yellow stripe along the top. A mesh pocket with a red strap is visible on the right side of the tent wall. Another green folding camp chair is partially visible in the foreground on the right.

A photograph of a person standing in a volcanic crater. The person is silhouetted against a very bright, glowing light source, likely the sun, which creates a strong lens flare and illuminates the surrounding landscape. The terrain is rugged and rocky, with some sparse vegetation visible on the slopes. The overall scene is dramatic and atmospheric.

I AM 16 and hate everything about my life. Now is it that everyone else is lucky and everything is all right all the time. All I have ever had is bad luck. I have lousy parents, a brother who leaves me and tells stories about me, my school is the worst and my best friend dumped me. Sometimes I feel like killing myself and finishing my bad luck once and for all. I am so depressed and trapped and nothing seems to be going right for me. What can I do? I am desperate.
- Desperately Unlucky

I have never been quite sure if my husband is the father of my nine-year-old child, or if it was the friend I had at the time.

I AM 12 and on the outside people think I'm a cool, confident dude. On the contrary, I feel a real idiot most of the time, especially in front of girls and other guys my age who all seem real cool. I am scared everyone will notice how inadequate I feel. (No one notices me anyway.) I never know what I am supposed to talk about or what to wear. My parents can't afford new clothes for me. I come from a small town and kids in the city (where I now live) seem cooler than me. I can't keep up, not that I've started. What can I do before I am discovered?
