WOLLONGONG ACADEMICS FIGURE PROMINENTLY IN PRESTIGIOUS SYDNEY UNIVERSITY JOURNAL

The over-45-years-old Current Affairs Bulletin, produced by the University of Sydney, has emerged in a completely revised form and Wollongong academics feature prominently in the first face-lifted issue.

The journal, which is read throughout Australia, and has some overseas readership as well, is noted for the in-depth nature of its articles.

In the June issue the 'cover story' entitled 'Can the Accord Survive?' is written by Robert Castle, senior lecturer in Economics, and Jim Hagan, Associate Professor in History, at this University. Their theme is that the Prices and Income Accord is at the heart of the Hawke government’s economic program. The wide-ranging social contract, they say, rests on the foundation of an incomes policy. The policy is designed to influence the market behaviour of companies and trade unions within a framework of a more expansionary economic course, which the government has substituted for the contractionism favoured by the Fraser government. Continuing success of this expansionary policy depends primarily upon the ability of the Accord to contain inflation.

Robert Castle and Jim Hagan examine the prospects for the Accord in the light of the experience of other OECD countries in operating incomes policies. They analyse the economic and political rationales for these policies and the major factors which caused some of them to collapse, and identify the components of the more successful policies. Finally they examine the political and economic factors affecting the Accord.

In another article in the June CAB the need for taxation reform in Australia is examined by John Mangan, senior lecturer in Economics at this University.

His theme is that reform is urgently needed for both social and economic reasons. Increasingly over the past two decades income tax payments have been borne disproportionately by pay-as-you-earn (PAYE) taxpayers - that is, wage and salary earners. The effects of this trend are felt in consumer demand, economic activity, industrial relations and in social relations within the community. These inequalities in the Australian tax system are a serious barrier to the government’s aim of producing consensus within Australian society.

John Mangan examines trends in income tax payments in Australia over the past 25 years and reviews some of the options for taxation reform.

Yet another link between the two universities is that responsible for the new-look Current Affairs Bulletin design is George Wilson, the journal’s Senior Executive Editor, who is also Editor of The University of Wollongong Gazette, and other Wollongong publications and who, in Giles Pickford’s absence on leave, is attempting to cobble together this Campus News.
General Notices

OFF TO CHINA

Dr Yew-Chaye Loo, Senior Lecturer in the Department of Civil and Mining Engineering, will leave Wollongong tomorrow (June 22) for a month-long academic visit to the People’s Republic of China.

On invitation of the Chinese Ministry of Education, Dr Loo’s itinerary will include Zhejiang University in Hangzhou, Tianjin University in Tianjin, Xian Institute of Metallurgy and Construction Engineering, Northeast University of Technology in Shenyang and Beijing University of Iron and Steel Technology. The last three institutions have formal links with Wollongong University.

At Zhejiang University, Dr Loo will give a series of seven research seminars on bridge analysis, concrete engineering and computer applications in structural engineering. The four seminars scheduled at Tianjin will be mainly on bridge and concrete engineering. In addition, one seminar each will be delivered at Xian and the Northeast University.

Dr Loo joined the University (then Wollongong University College) in 1974. From 1981 to 1984 he was on an Australian Government secondment to the Asian Institute of Technology, an international postgraduate engineering school in Bangkok, where he held a position of Associate Professor of Structural Engineering. He returned to Wollongong last December.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR 12 DAY

Another successful Introduction Day for Year 12 students was held on campus on Wednesday and Friday June 12 and 14. An estimated 800 people visited over the two days. Most were from schools, though a few prospective mature age students took the opportunity to acquaint themselves better with the University before sitting the Special Admissions test in July. Some of our visitors came from as far afield as Goulburn, Moss Vale and Nowra. Sydney schools, too, were well represented.

There were many positive and enthusiastic responses - “when can I enrol?” was a frequent question. The only incident which significantly marred the day was the loss of a computer disk on the Friday afternoon.

Publicity and Information would like to thank all staff who contributed to the success of the day. Some departments, such as Physics and Geography, have made a stated commitment to greater schools liaison, and took a good deal of trouble to produce an effective presentation. Their efforts are particularly appreciated.

Again, thanks to everyone involved, and please let us have suggestions for improvements - extensions 3916 or 3926.

LINK SEVERED BY DEATH OF WILLIAM PEASCOD

Internationally recognised as an artist of note (whose paintings are to be found in many parts of the University), and highly respected as an outstanding mountaineer, Mr William (Bill) Peascod met his death on May 17 as he was climbing the Great Slab on Clogwyn D’Ur Arduu in Snodonia, Wales. He was second in a party led by Mr Don Whillans when he collapsed on the rope. He was 65.

Bill Peascod was born the son of a miner near Maryport in West Cumbria and at the age of 14 followed his father down the pit. It was three years later that he started rock climbing, applying his phenomenal physical strength as a coal miner to a growing appreciation of the challenge and the beauty of Lake District crags.

With his climbing partner Bert Beck, a Workington teacher, in the late 1940s he pushed the standard of Lakeland climbing into new realms of difficulty. The guidebooks contain many rock climbs of bold and elegant quality which he discovered.

In the 1950s he emigrated to Australia and lectured in mining at Wollongong, where he began his painting career. His work swiftly won recognition with exhibitions at the leading Australian galleries and numerous awards and prizes. It was an art prize that took him in 1971 to Japan where he met his second wife Etsu. It was she who recognized on her first visit to the Lake District that it was the light and colour of those hills that the artist Peascod had been recapturing in his work.

They returned to the lakes five years ago with their daughter and settled near Bassenthwaite. Peascod immediately became active again in the climbing world, winning the particular respect of a new generation of rock climbers who had taken his sport to its next stage of development. He was a vice-president of the British Mountaineering Council, the governing body of British mountaineering, and a vice-president of the Fell and Rock Climbing Club of the English Lake District.

Recently he appeared on television in the series Lakeland Rock where, partnered by Chris Bonington, he led perhaps his greatest rock climb, Eagle Front near Buttermere, still a formidable route which he discovered more than 40 years ago.

His language as he moved across the greasy holes on the climb’s crux seemed to offend some viewers but was defended by both the BBC and the Bishop of Hull as justified under the circumstances.

His autobiography Journey After Dawn was published recently. It reflects a man of great warmth, humanity and quiet wisdom. The Times, 20 May, 1986.
THE NSW INSTITUTE FOR EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH

Members of the NSW Institute for Educational Research will be visiting the University today to share some of their research activities and encourage educational research in the Illawarra. An informal lunch will be held at 12.30 pm followed by presentations of papers at 1.30 pm. Each paper will provide a brief summary of the participant's most recent research on the themes of relevance to and implications for educational practice.

The meeting will be held in the Meeting Room (Building 20) (formerly the Institute Council Room) and invitations to attend are extended to any interested readers and friends. Lunch will be provided by the Faculty of Education.

STUDENT DISCOUNT

A ten per cent student discount is available by the Union for food purchases made at the Union Bistro. Those wanting to claim the discount must first notify the waitress of their claim at the time of placing the order and must produce a satisfactory I.D. card or receipt.

PROBLEMS WITH READING AND WRITING MID-YEAR RECESS COURSE

The ways in which some students write essays and read text material contrasts sharply with the ways skilled writers and readers approach the same tasks.

The Centre for Studies in Literacy will be conducting intensive courses in essay writing and reading for University purposes during the mid-year recess. This is a free service to all students and application forms are available by phoning 270973 before the end of June.

Special assistance is also available for those students for whom English is a Second Language who wish to improve their level of English literacy.

Individual tutorials and small group tutorials are also now available by appointment.

CULTURE CRAFT GALLERY PORT KEMBLA

An ethnic arts and crafts centre has been established under the Community Employment Program (CEP) as a community owned venture managed by the Port Kembla Chamber of Commerce.

The Culture Craft Gallery is located at 60 Wentworth Street, Port Kembla, and the organisers hope that by selling traditional arts and crafts from different countries on a consignment basis, the shop will become self-supporting when the CEP funds have been expended.

The Gallery currently needs stocks to fill the shelves. Anyone interested in helping may call Belinda on (042) 741730, or call into the Gallery between 9 am and 5 pm, Monday to Friday.

Belinda Simic (042) 741730; Ann Bubb/Margaret Bowen (042) 742608.

A CAREER DEVELOPMENT WORKSHOP FOR WOMEN

A career development workshop for women will be held in the Counselling Centre on July 2 and July 4 from 5.30 pm to 8.30 pm. It is particularly designed for women studying at postgraduate level, although other women may apply.

The workshop will cover the areas of career planning and interview and application writing skills.

Contact Beth Urwin (extension 3592) if you wish to attend.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO INTENDING MATURE-AGE APPLICANTS

The Special Admissions Test (S.A.T.) for admission to the University in 1986 will be held on July 9. This will allow successful applicants to apply by October 2 and avoid the $30 late fee payable after that date.

The Special Admissions Test gives applicants who do not have the normal admission qualifications and who will be over 21 by June 30, in the year of testing, the opportunity to undertake studies at degree level.

For application forms for the S.A.T., contact Student Enquiries, The University of Wollongong, P.O. Box 1144, Wollongong, N.S.W. 2500. Phone (042) 270927.

Closing date June 28. Registration fee is $10.

CAMPUS INTERVIEW PROGRAMME

Stage 1 — July 16

Australian Customs Service

An information session and individual interviews will be given to all students interested in a career in computing. Both second and final year students are welcome to attend.

Department of Industry, Technology and Commerce

Informal information sessions will be held for final year students. The Department is currently recruiting for Accountants, Economists and Assistant Research Officers.

Bookings for the above visits must be made at the Counselling Centre by WEDNESDAY JULY 10.

EXTENSIONS TO THE LIBRARY

The University has been advised, by the Commonwealth Tertiary Education Commission, of an allocation of $4 million for extensions to the Michael Birt Library and a Library Building User Committee, chaired by Professor D. Jackson, has been established so that planning for the development can proceed.

The Committee's role is to represent the views of the users of the Library so that these can be taken into account during the planning process and in preparing the design of the extension of the Library.

As a part of the planning process, it is the University's task to specify its requirements for the proposed extensions.
Fundings for Seven Key Centres of Teaching and Research

The Minister for Education, Senator Susan Ryan, declared that the seven centres would share equally the $1 million made available under a special Commonwealth Tertiary Education Commission program for each year of the 1985-87 triennium.

The centres to be funded are:

- Centre for Advanced Computing Sciences (New South Wales Institute of Technology);
- Joint Centre for Statistical Sciences (University of Melbourne/La Trobe University/Monash University/Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology);
- Centre for Computer Integrated Manufacturing (Swinburne Institute of Technology);
- Centre for Land Information Studies (Queensland Institute of Technology/University of Queensland);
- Centre for Resource Exploration (Western Australian Institute of Technology);
- Centre for Advanced Study in Petroleum Geology and Geophysics (University of Adelaide);
- Centre in Aboriginal Studies and Education (South Australian College of Advanced Education).

The centres were chosen from more than 120 detailed proposals, and the final selection followed consultation with relevant Commonwealth departments and agencies, and with other specialist organisations.

Senator Ryan said that the standard of applications was high and the funds available restricted the number of centres which could be approved. The possibility of funding additional centres could be examined in the 1985/86 Budget context.

Senator Ryan said that the principal aims of the Key Centres program were to improve teaching and research standards through concentration of effort, with particular emphasis on undergraduate work; to assist the transfer of high-quality students and staff between higher education institutions; to help higher education respond to demands for expertise, particularly in areas relevant to national development; and to promote cooperation between higher education and industry.

Seminars

Further details about the seminars are shown on the 'Campus News' noticeboard.

EDUCATION IN LITERACY

A conference under the title of Education in Literacy will be held by the Illawarra Regional Educational Research Council on Saturday August 10. The Conference will take place in the Pentagon Building, beginning with registration at 8.45 am and ending at approximately 4.15 pm.

The address of welcome will be given by the Vice-Chancellor, Professor Ken McKinnon, and the opening of the conference address will be given by Alderman Frank Arkell, Lord Mayor of Wollongong.

Papers during the morning sessions will be presented by Professor Dame Leonie Kramer (Literacy in Relation to Reading), and Mr Chris Maher, Training Officer A.I.S. Pty Ltd (Community Demands on Literacy).

In the period immediately before the lunch break prizes for the student writing competition sponsored by the Illawarra Mercury and the Illawarra District of P & C Associations will be presented by Mr David Jones, President of the Illawarra P & C Association, and Mr Peter Newell, Editor of The Mercury.

Afternoon sessions will focus on Before and After School Years - Mrs Deanna Morgan, Principal, Montessori School, Wollongong, and Adult Education - Mrs Pat Mansour, Adult Education Adviser.

Later in the afternoon the conference will be addressed by Dr Brian Cambourne, Head of the Centre for Studies in Literacy in the University, and Mr Tony Ball, of the NSW Department of Technical and Further Education (TAFE).

Summing-up will be by Mrs Ethel Schouten, Deputy Principal of Oak Flats Primary School.

1985 THE YEAR OF YOUTH — "YOUNG ARTISTS OF PROMISE"

A free public exhibition of drawings by children and students.

It is singularly appropriate in this Year of Youth that an Australian University is promoting an exhibition of drawings titled "Young Artists of Promise". Selected drawings cover an age range from Pre Primary, Primary, Secondary to Tertiary Education.

These young artists are currently studying in either Schools, Colleges or University in the Illawarra region or Sydney.

In a single exhibition space it is possible to enjoy, compare and evaluate drawings done by very young children through to adult tertiary students. Thus the exhibition gives emphasis to drawing as a visual language — an international language. We would have to be specialist scholars to understand ancient foreign texts such as the 'Dead Sea Scrolls' or ancient Egyptian writing. Yet we can comprehend, appreciate and enjoy drawings made by our distant forebears who lived sixteen thousand or more years ago, and drew on cave walls as Lascaux in South France.

It could also be argued that never was there more need for educational establishments to cultivate the creative side of the young who live in a world full of changes; facing as they do the potential horrors of nuclear holocaust; the ever rising world population and the inability of human beings to organise their affairs to prevent acute hunger, indeed famine, how widespread in certain regions of the world. Perhaps less dramatically but no less importantly is the need to living in city complexes does not blight or diminish the human spirit but enriches it.

In this context this exhibition is one to be enjoyed but it has an underlying seriousness of purpose. Not least is the continuing validity and worth of drawing as an essential discipline in training young children and students.

Open to the public until Sunday June 23, 2 pm to 5 pm.

In the Long Gallery, University of Wollongong, Entrance 4, Building 25.

TRAVEL FELLOWSHIPS

The Australian Institute of Tertiary Educational Administrators has set up a Travel Fellowship scheme. It is intended that, in the first instance, one Fellowship will be granted each year.

The Travel Fellowship is intended to assist a member of the Institute to undertake a project in Australia or overseas with the intent of developing proposals for improving the management of tertiary institutions or the coordinating agencies associated with tertiary education in Australia. The project may involve participation in conferences, workshops, seminars and/or undertaking studies or in-depth investigations concerned with a management problem or issue.

A grant of up to $2000 will be made towards the expenses of the successful applicant. The applicant's project must have the support of his/her institution's chief executive or head, and the applicant must have access to additional finance if this is necessary to enable the project to be completed. The Travel Fellowship must be commenced during 1986.

It is expected that the successful applicant will submit to the Institute a written report on his/her project within three months of the termination of the Travel Fellowship. The report will be submitted to the editors of the Journal of Tertiary Educational Administration for publication, if it is considered suitable.

AUSTRALIA–CHINA EXCHANGE

The attention of Campus News has been drawn to an application for Fellowships by the Academy of Social Sciences in Australia and the Australian Academy of the Humanities. The Fellowship is entitled the Academies' Australia-China Exchange in the Humanities and Social Sciences, and applications are invited from scholars interested in visiting China, either individually or as a member of a small group with common study programs, under the Joint Exchange Agreement present operating between Australian Academies of the Humanities and the Social Sciences and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in Beijing.

For scholars travelling alone, reasonable facility in the Chinese language is necessary unless private arrangements can be made for interpretation while in China. Groups should have at least one member fluent in Chinese.

Successful applicants will normally spend from three to six weeks working in Institutes under the control of, or associated with, the Chinese Academy, which will be responsible for their expenses and itinerary within China. The Australian Academies will meet travel costs to China and return.

The award of Exchange Fellowships will be subject to the approval of the Chinese Academy and will be for the calendar year 1986. Applications close on July 30 this year.
