AND NOW NURSES ARE ‘OFFICIALLY’ ON CAMPUS

The builders and their machinery have moved on from at least one corner of the campus. And on Tuesday of last week the State Minister for Health and Deputy Premier, Mr Ron Mulock, officially declared open Stage 1 of the new building for the School of Health Sciences (Nursing). Stage 1 has cost some $600,000—half a million from the NSW government and the remainder from the University’s own funds.

What this means is that tertiary education of nurses on campus is now ‘official’. From now on all basic nursing courses will be offered at Diploma level. The University of Wollongong thus becomes one of 14 tertiary institutions invited to participate in this innovative step in nursing education.

The Diploma of Applied Science (Nursing) will require three years of full-time study. The major areas of study are the foundation studies in the physical, biological and behavioural sciences that provide a framework for nursing studies; theoretical studies in nursing; and clinical practice.

Students successfully completing the course will be eligible for registration in New South Wales. It is anticipated that some 140 student nurses will enrol each year.

The concession covers basic research, applied research to attract much more research work from industry. Companies which contract R & D activities in Australia will be able to claim the concession for their expenditure, provided charges are made on a full cost-recovery basis. In this way, institutions will be able to attract much more research work from industry.

The major aim of the tax concession scheme is to improve levels of R & D undertaken by the private sector. However, the government believes this will encourage a revitalisation of publicly funded research institutions which undertake most of Australia's R & D.

The new building has been designed to meet the needs of the course, and teaching areas have been made available in local hospitals. Acting Director of the new School is Dr Michael Hough.

150 PER CENT TAX INCENTIVE FOR R & D: WHAT IT MEANS FOR RESEARCH INSTITUTIONS

Research institutions are assessing the 150 per cent tax incentive for R & D, recently announced by the Federal government.

Foreshadowed in the Prime Minister’s 1984 election policy speech, the scheme became effective from July 1 this year. It will benefit companies investing in R & D activities in Australia.

Although Australia’s publicly funded R & D effort has been comparable to that of other similar-sized industrial nations, private sector investment in R & D has become increasingly weak. Spending on R & D by the private sector fell from 0.42 per cent of GDP in 1973-74 to 0.22 per cent in 1981-82 and is reported to have continued this downward trend to 1983-84. Later figures are not available. This compares badly with levels of private sector R & D expenditure overseas — 1.5 per cent of GDP in the Federal Republic of Germany, an above 1.3 per cent in Sweden, and 0.48 per cent in Canada.

Low levels of private sector spending on R & D have reduced Australian industry’s ability to tackle important restructuring and modernisation problems. The implications for Australia’s international competitiveness are serious.

The major aim of the tax concession scheme is to improve levels of R & D undertaken by the private sector. However, the government believes this will encourage a revitalisation of publicly funded research institutions which undertake most of Australia’s R & D.

Companies which contract R & D work to these institutions will be able to claim the concession for their expenditure, provided charges are made on a full cost-recovery basis. In this way, institutions will be able to attract much more research work from industry.

The concession covers basic research, applied research and experimental development. The scheme applies to expenditure incurred on or after 1 July 1986. Initially it will operate for six years. There will be a technical review of the scheme after two years and a cost effectiveness review after four years.

Announcing details of the scheme, the Minister for Industry, Technology and Commerce, Senator John Button, said it would be one of the most important means of lifting Australia’s level of R & D. It would also provide research institutions with a greater practical, commercial orientation.

He encouraged members of Australia’s research community to make the most of this concession by looking for opportunities to undertake contracted and collaborative research and development with firms eligible for the concession.

WOLLONGONG TO BE WELL-REPRESENTED AT NATIONAL SPECIAL EDUCATION CONFERENCES

Several of our staff members and students will be attending special education conferences during the next two months. Ms Jane Cook, member of the Unit for Special Education in the Faculty of Education, and Ms Carolyn Ridge, one of our graduate students, will be attending the 10th Annual Conference of the Australian Association for Special Education in Launceston during September.

At this conference Ms Cook will have an opportunity to speak on her area of expertise: the use of computers with special needs learners. Ms Ridge will be able to share her extensive research in the area of severe intellectual disability with other special educators.

Dr Lyn Gow, also from the Unit for Special Education, will present three papers. As Federal co-ordinator of the Tertiary Educators Special Interest Group, she will address the issue of the need for more co-operation between Australian tertiary educators in their research activities. She is also presenting a paper entitled, “Teaching for generalisation: recommendations for programming,” in which she will stress the need for special educators to program systematically for generalisation outcomes.

The third paper is a joint one with Ms Boleyn, TAFE’s Consultant for the Disabled, Illawarra Group. In this paper, the authors will be reporting on an innovative staff training program they developed to cater for the needs of TAFE teachers of disabled adults.

Dr Gow has also been invited to present a paper in a symposium on Strategy training and generalisation for developmentally disabled people: theory and practice at the Third Joint Conference of the Australian Group for the Scientific Study of Mental Deficiency and the Australian Association for Mental Retardation in Brisbane next month. In her paper, entitled “Cognitive strategy training as a means of improving the efficiency of instruction in sheltered workshops and activity training centres”, she will present findings of research she has recently conducted with funds provided by the University of Wollongong’s Research Grants’ Committee.

CATHOLIC SOCIETY TALKS

The Catholic Society is putting on the following talks in the coming weeks.

September 3
From the V.-C's Office

APPOINTMENT OF PROFESSOR CHUBB AS DEPUTY VICE-CHANCELLOR

I am pleased to announce the appointment of Professor Ian Chubb as Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic and Research).

Professor Chubb is currently Head of the Department of Physiology in the School of Medicine at the Flinders University of South Australia. He is Chairman of the Flinders University Research Committee and an elected member of the Flinders University Council.

Professor Chubb is a graduate of Oxford where he gained his M.Sc. and D.Phil. degrees. He has distinguished himself in the field of Neuroscience Research and is Chairman of the National Health and Medical Research Council’s Regional Grant Interviewing Committee, Sydney.

Professor Chubb expects to take up his appointment at the beginning of 1986, assuming arrangements can be made to transfer his substantial research team and ongoing research grants to Wollongong by then.

The University is delighted to have attracted such an outstanding person to this post.

K.R. McKinnon, Vice-Chancellor.

STUDY MISSION TO EGYPT AND ISRAEL

Australian Academics for Peace in the Middle East (AAPME) is an academic association which exists to promote informed discussion on the conditions for a just and lasting peace between the State of Israel and the Arab world.

One of AAPME’s major activities is to organise academic study missions to Egypt and Israel, in which participants receive high-level briefings on the political, military, and social aspects of the Middle East situation. The next study mission is scheduled to start in Egypt on December 8. Participants will then move to Israel for a further two weeks.

These study missions are organised in co-operation with the Foreign Minister of each country concerned. In Israel, the Australian group will join an American group. Ten places are available.

Total cost of the trip, including air travel, travel in Egypt and Israel, accommodation and most meals, will be $2,355, at present rates of exchange. The Egyptian trip includes a visit to Luxor, and the Israel trip also includes a number of excursions to historical sites.

Further details from Mr G. Lee, Secretary, AAPME, Shalom College, University of New South Wales.

Applications close on October 4.

NETWORK GROUP FOR STAFF WITH DISABILITIES

Staff in the NSW Government Administration are invited to join the network group for staff with disabilities which was recently established by the Office of the Director of Equal Opportunity in Public Employment. To date there are over 100 people on the network list and the group represents a wide range of disabilities and work categories.

The network has been established to enable disabled people to meet and discuss their work experiences and interests and to contribute to the formulation of strategies relating to disabilities under section 9A of the Anti-Discrimination Act. It is anticipated that the network will meet every six to eight weeks to discuss the provision of information on disability to network members, the publishing of a network newsletter, involvement in projects and submissions relating to the employment and training of staff with disabilities, and to organise social activities and provide counselling and support for network group members as required.

Meetings will be held every six to eight weeks in the city at venues that are wheelchair accessible and have parking available. A signing interpreter is provided for hearing-impaired staff and material is provided in Braille or audiotape as requested.
Meetings will also be held in Parramatta, Wollongong and Newcastle and in country centres during the year. The first of these regional meetings was held earlier this month when staff from the office visited Wollongong on August 14 and Gosford/Newcastle on August 21.

Further information about the network group from Catherine Cole on (02) 238 7059 or by writing to her at the Office of the Director of Equal Opportunity in Public Employment, Level 11, 8 Bent St, Sydney, 2000.

THEFTS ON CAMPUS

Over the past year or so, staff have been warned of the increase in thefts of personal effects, particularly purses and wallets, from offices.

Already this year there have been 16 reported cases of purses and wallets having been stolen from unattended offices.

The importance of securing such property cannot be emphasised enough. If it is necessary to leave wallets and purses, for example, in unattended offices (locked or not) I strongly advise that they be locked in drawers or cupboards.

Your assistance is also requested in notifying the Security Staff (ext 3936) of anyone acting suspiciously in and around University buildings.

K.E. Turnbull, Senior Assistant Secretary, Buildings & Grounds.

Research Grants

HUMAN NUTRITION

The Poultry Research Advisory Committee invites applications for research proposals concerning the nutritive value of eggs and their dietary significance. Research involving significant numbers of human subjects is felt to be of greatest interest.

The Committee is particularly interested in dietary cholesterol and the level of unsaturation of dietary fats and the effect of dietary cholesterol on normal and hypercholesteremic subjects.

The Poultry Research Advisory Committee has set aside funds of approximately $50,000 for support of at least two research projects into these and related areas. Funding will be available from 1st January 1986.

Further details from Trevor Smith, ext 3079.

THE UNIVERSITY OF QUEENSLAND

POSTGRADUATE STUDY 1986

Scholars from outside Queensland who hold a first class honours or master’s degree are invited to apply for postgraduate awards for full-time study for research masters (two years) or PhD (three years) degrees.

Programs:

Available in the following areas in any of 64 departments — Humanities, Social Sciences, Biological Sciences, Physical and Technological Sciences, Health Sciences.

Financial Assistance:

* University of Queensland Postgraduate Scholarships valued at A$5,500 plus various allowances are available in all departments.

* Tutorial Assistantships of $4,663 per year are available in many departments, requiring teaching duties of 180 hours per year, and may be held in conjunction with postgraduate Scholarships.

* Tutorial Fellowships of $9,325 per year are available in some departments, requiring teaching duties of 360 hours per year. Tutorial Fellowships may not be held with University of Queensland Scholarships.

For more information and application forms write: The Registrar, (Attention Scholarship Section), University of Queensland, St. Lucia, 4067, Queensland.

Closing date is October 31.

LADY LEITCH SCHOLARSHIP

Applications are called for the Lady Leitch Scholarship which will be available during 1986 or 1987.

The Scholarship is open to all members of the Australian Federation of University Women for study or research for a higher degree or post graduate diploma at a recognised Victorian tertiary institution (a Victorian scholar may be permitted to use the scholarship for interstate or overseas study). It is of the value of $3,000. Applications will be received from graduates of any age and graduates who have not yet taken out their degrees. Competition for this Scholarship will be keen and only applicants with excellent academic records should apply. Scholarships are not usually awarded to persons on paid study or related programs from academic institutions.

The Scholarship money will be paid in three parts. The first half will be paid to the recipient before she leaves Australia or on commencing work at the selected place of study; a quarter four months later; and the remainder after a further four months and the receipt of a satisfactory report from the scholar. The first report must be submitted seven months after the first payment is made and a more detailed report is required on completion of the Scholarship term. An applicant in receipt of salary, or one holding another scholarship or grant concurrently is not necessarily disqualified from receiving the Scholarship, but the amount of such salary or grant will be taken into consideration when the award is made.

Further information from Trevor Smith, ext 3079.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN — VICTORIA

Applications are called for the Australian Federation of University Women — Victoria Scholarship which will be available during 1986 or 1987.

The Scholarship is open to all members of the International Federation of University Women for study or research for a higher degree or post graduate diploma at a recognised Victorian tertiary institution (a Victorian scholar may be permitted to use the scholarship for interstate or overseas study). It is of the value of $3,000. Applications will be received from graduates of any age and graduates who have not yet taken out their degrees. Special consideration may be given to mature age applicants who are returning to study after five years or more of absence and/or students whose research or study is concerned with high technology or non-traditional areas of study.

Distinguished Visitors

PROFESSOR KEITH HANCOCK TO DELIVER FIRST SIR RICHARD KIRBY LECTURE

Professor Keith Hancock, Vice-Chancellor of Flinders University and chairman of the recent federal government enquiry into industrial relations, will deliver the first Sir Richard Kirby Lecture on Monday, September 23, at 7.30 pm at the University of Wollongong.

This public lecture is named in honour of Sir Richard Kirby, sometime President of the Conciliation and Arbitration Commission. Sir Richard was also a member of the Council of the University of Wollongong between 1975 and 1982 and is Chairman of the Advertising Standards Council. He delivered the university’s first industrial relations public lecture in 1978.

The lecture will be of great interest to all with a concern for the future of industrial relations in this country.

NATIONAL RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS
QUEEN ELIZABETH II AWARDS

The Australian Government has established the National Research Fellowships — Queen Elizabeth II Awards to replace the previous Queen Elizabeth II Fellowships and Queen’s Fellowships Schemes. Under this Scheme, 15 awards will be made annually. Fellowships may be taken up in industry, universities, colleges of advanced education or government research organisations in Australian and are normally for two years. Tenure of a Fellowship is expected to commence within nine months of the announcement of the award. The awards are for high quality research work in one of three categories:

1. Fundamental Research.
2. Industry Based Research

For further information contact Trevor Smith, ext 3079.

THE A.W. HOWARD MEMORIAL TRUST INC.
APPLICATION FOR TRAVEL GRANTS

The A.W. Howard Memorial Trust Inc. was established in 1964 by the Australian Institute of Agricultural Science to perpetuate the memory of Amos Howard who fostered the use of subterranean clover as a pasture plant in Australia.

The objects of the Trust are to “encourage and promote research and investigation in the fields of natural science and social science, including economics which relate to the development, management and use of pastures”.

The Trust now invites applications for travel grants to assist in attending overseas conferences related to the objects of the Trust and to be held between December 1, 1985, and the end of 1986. Grants in the past have averaged $1,500 and are intended as financial support towards attending conferences and related travel.

Applicants must be engaged in aspects of pasture research within the objects of the Trust and must be a member of staff of a recognised public research organisation. Preference will be given to young workers who are under 35 years of age but older applicants are not excluded.

Application forms are obtainable from the Secretary, Howard Memorial Trust, South Australian Department of Agriculture, Box 1671, Adelaide 5001 (phone (08) 2273000). Completed applications must reach the Secretary by 13 September, 1985.

THE EDGECOURTH DAVID MEDAL 1985

The Edgeworth David Medal is awarded by the Royal Society of New South Wales for distinguished contributions by young scientists.

The conditions of the award of the Medal are:

a. The recipient must be under the age of 35 years at January, 1985.
b. The Award will be for work done mainly in Australia or its territories or contributing to the advancement of Australian science.

Three copies of nominations and supporting material should be submitted to the Royal Society of New South Wales not later than September 30, 1985.

The Award will be announced at the Annual General Meeting to be held in April, 1986. Correspondence to: The Hon. Secretary, Royal Society of N.S.W., P.O. Box N112, Grosvenor Street, NSW, 2000.

VACATION SCHOLARSHIPS IN THE AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Vacation scholarships are available in most Research Schools, Faculties and Centres of The Australian National University during the December-February university vacation period, subject to appropriate supervision being available. Vacation scholars are expected to undertake a substantial piece of research work, which should result in a report, possibly for publication.
Vacation scholarships are normally offered to currently enrolled undergraduate students who intend to complete an honours degree in the following year. In most instances this means that the scholarships will be awarded to students who will have, by the end of 1985, completed not less than three years of a four-year full-time undergraduate course. Only in special circumstances will vacation scholarships be offered to students who have completed less than three years of an undergraduate degree course. (Students who will in 1985 complete an honours degree may wish to apply for a postgraduate scholarship rather than a vacation scholarship.) ANU vacation scholarships are available to undergraduate students in all universities in Australia and New Zealand. ANU students may apply for vacation scholarships in the Institute of Advanced Studies only.

Vacation scholarships give students an experience of research work which is likely to be interesting and useful to those who wish to consider whether they should later apply for a postgraduate scholarship. The vacation scholarships provide contact with distinguished researchers and may enable students to employ facilities and materials for research of a kind which may not be readily available elsewhere. All concerned gain from the opportunities provided for students to evaluate for themselves, and to demonstrate to others, their aptitudes for research work. Vacation scholarships are not merely a form of vacation employment — they offer a challenge for research work. Letters

Dear Editor, My daughter was delighted to be accepted into the Creative Bachelor of Arts course this year. After all the preliminary interviews she enrolled and was happy to begin. Unfortunately, we discovered too late just how bad the transport situation was from Sydney to the City of Wollongong. I just couldn't believe that a University City was so badly organised as regards suitable transport. My daughter was not able to live in Wollongong due to medical difficulties, and the journey became impossible when we tried the transport system.

Long hours in between lectures, and the late lectures continuing into late at night. No transport from the dark bushy areas around the Arts department to the railway station. My daughter was relying on lifts by anyone who was available, so the situation was fraught with danger.

Why no bus service to the University? Nothing from the North Wollongong station, and any bus from the main terminal was too late for lectures.

Such a nice University atmosphere, and gracious lecturers. How we were so disappointed as a family that my daughter found it impossible to attend, and reluctantly had to resign, simply because of such a poor transport system. I do hope things will improve in the future, as the University offers such interesting courses.

Sincerely, Jennifer Milani, Potts Point, NSW.

Bessie Foskett — Well known local figure and supporter of the Symphony Orchestra since its foundation.

The work is largely concerned with aspects of the Illawarra escarpment landscape and the music attempts to evoke the view to the escarpment, its changing colours, its serenity and sense of timelessness but also the myriad sounds of its fauna, particularly its birdlife. Bessie Foskett was known to have preferred the view to the escarpment rather than to the sea.

The work was written with the Conservatorium Training Orchestra in mind and they will give the first performance at the Union Hall on December 7.
