EDUCATION ADMINISTRATION CHARGE

Despite difficult budgetary circumstances, the government will maintain the momentum of its tertiary education policies in 1987, says the Minister for Education, Senator Susan Ryan. Her statement is reproduced here in full.

'The government's commitment to providing adequate and equitable opportunities for youth is undiminished. 'On top of the extra places funded in higher education in each year since this government came to office, there will be funding for an additional 2700–3300 intakes in 1987. In this way 36,800 extra places will have been created since 1983—an increase of 14 per cent.

'Because of the current economic circumstances, however, funding of higher education places is restricted by the many other demands on limited tertiary funds, such as administration costs.

'The government has therefore decided to introduce a higher education administration charge from 1987 as a contribution towards the administrative costs of institutional budgets.

'The charge will be set at $250 per student per annum. It will be indexed each year in line with Commonwealth Tertiary Education Commission cost indexes applicable to higher education general salary costs.

'There will be substantial categories of students—in the main students dependent on low incomes—who will either be exempted or have their education allowance increased to reimburse them for the charge.

'Altogether about 114,000 students will not be affected by the charge.

In addition, needy students who will not be exempt or who will not be reimbursed will be able to apply to institutional budgets for assistance from the Special Assistance for Student Program. Under the Program established by this government, $11 million is available to be distributed by institutions for low cost loans and grants.

'Legislation has been introduced to require institutions to impose the charge and to provide for their grants (to be paid in March 1987) to be reduced by an amount equivalent to 90 per cent of the revenue estimated to be derived from the charge ($86.9 million in 1987).

'In this way institutions will retain the balance of 10 per cent ($9.7 million in 1987) and this will be available for expenditure on institutions' own purposes.'

The following conditions will apply to the charge:

— Subject to certain exemptions listed below, the charge will apply uniformly to students in universities and colleges of advanced education undertaking full award courses, or courses or individual subjects which could form part of a higher education award.

— Included in the arrangements will be enrolments at non-government teachers' colleges. Students undertaking other higher education level courses where the Commonwealth funds the places in question will also be included.

— The charge will apply to students enrolling on a full-time, part-time or external basis and will be imposed at the time of enrolment.

The following categories of students will be exempted from the charge:

— students who at the time of enrolment hold a scholarship awarded by the institution itself, where the value of the living allowance under the scholarship exceeds $1000 per annum not including dependant's allowances;

— students who undertake a course of study at a particular institution as part of the requirements of their enrolment in another institution—these will pay the charge only at the latter institution;

— overseas students enrolled on a full fee paying basis;

— supporting parent beneficiaries, Class A widows, carer’s and invalid pensioners who are studying either full-time or part-time.

The following groups will be effectively exempted from the charge by receiving a special allowance to offset the charge:

— beneficiaries under AUSTUDY, the age related education allowance scheme (incorporating TEAS);

— holders of an award under the Postgraduate Awards scheme; and — holders of Abstudy grants.

Students in this category will be reimbursed through the student allowance payments arrangements.

Overseas students who are liable for the Overseas Students Charge (OSC) will be required to pay the administration charge to the institution in which they enrol but the OSC calculated each year will be reduced by the amount of the administration charge.
Changes to overseas student arrangements

The Minister for Education, Senator Susan Ryan, has released further details of recent government decisions on arrangements for overseas student entry in 1987 which were announced in the Budget. Her statement is reproduced here in full.

Senator Ryan emphasised that the government was committed to a three-track approach to overseas student policy; that is, providing for fully sponsored students under the aid program, private subsidised students, and full fee paying students.

Intake quotas for subsidised students would be maintained at the 1986 level of 3,500, but from 1987, postgraduate research students from overseas will not be counted within these overall intake figures. The government was conscious that some potentially excellent research students might be lost to Australia because of quota restrictions. However, the overall numbers would be closely monitored to ensure student load factors at institutions were not distorted, thereby disadvantaging Australian students seeking places at either undergraduate or postgraduate levels. The ten per cent institution and 20 per cent course quotas already announced would continue to apply.

Senator Ryan confirmed that, as the government had foreshadowed in 1985, the Overseas Students Charge for students who began their higher education courses in 1986 would move to 45 per cent of full average cost from 1987, the same rate as for new students; students who started their studies before 1986 will pay a 15 per cent increase in 1987, bringing the charge to the equivalent of 32 per cent of full average cost.

As announced in the Budget papers, the Overseas Students Charge paid by each student will be reduced by $250 to take account of the administration charge to be levied on all students undertaking higher education courses.

From 1987, liability for the Overseas Students Charge will be extended to overseas students at secondary schools and TAFE colleges, to recoup a proportion of the cost to the Commonwealth of supporting places for overseas students at Australian education institutions. All overseas students at secondary schools will pay a flat rate of $300 a year. TAFE overseas students who began their courses before 1 January 1987 will pay 32 per cent of the average Commonwealth contribution to TAFE costs ($530), and new students will pay 45 per cent ($740).

Senator Ryan stressed that students from Papua New Guinea and sovereign states of the South Pacific will continue to have the charge paid on their behalf by the Australian Development Assistance Bureau (ADAB). Certain categories of students in higher education previously exempt will also now be liable for the charge. In particular, holders of new postgraduate scholarships awarded by Australian institutions or by the Australian-American Educational Foundation (AAEF), and new students provided with awards by Commonwealth departments or authorities, will be liable at the new student rates.

Postgraduate recipients of educational institution scholarships or postgraduates who have already had their liability discharged will, if they have enrolled before 1 January 1987, continue to be exempt from the charge. This limited exemption does not, however, apply to existing postgraduate students with scholarships from the Australian-American Educational Foundation who will have to pay the charge at 32 per cent rate.

In reaching its decisions on charges for 1987, Senator Ryan said the government had to take into account the difficult Australian budgetary pressures and the costs to the Australian taxpayers of maintaining the Overseas Students Program. The decisions had not been reached lightly.

"The charges announced represent an equitable balance between the contribution made by the Australian taxpayer and that made by individual students who benefit through the qualifications obtained and the time spent in Australia," Senator Ryan said.

COMPUTERS IN EDUCATION ALIVE AND WELL IN SPITE OF THE BUDGET

It seems incongruous that in the week after the Budget, with its announcement of cutbacks to Australia's computer education program, an important conference was held at the University of Wollongong to discuss the educational potential of devices that can be added to microcomputers.

The conference was entitled Micros Plus: the educational implications of connecting tools and devices to microcomputers. Sponsored by the University, the International Federation for Information Processing, the Australian Computer Society, and a number of commercial sponsors including Apple Computers, Burroughs, Barsons Computer and Progeni, the conference was held from August 28 to 30.

IFIP is made up of representatives of the computer societies of over 30 countries. Each year, through its working committees, IFIP organises a number of working conferences where state-of-the-art discussions take place. These conferences are then written up and published, so as to inform a broader audience.

The conference at Wollongong was one of those rare occasions, if not the first, where IFIP sponsored an event outside the northern hemisphere. Increased computer awareness on the part of all Australians together with increased use of computer-based technologies in Australian educational institutions will undoubtedly help Australia meet its uncertain economic future in a more positive manner.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN – NSW ILLAWARRA BRANCH

The AFUW was established in 1922 and has maintained its affiliation with the International Federation (IFUW) whose headquarters is in Geneva. This year the Triennial Conference of IFUW was held in Christchurch, NZ, in August. Our Wollongong Branch, known until 1974 as the Women Graduates' dates from 1962 Mrs Margaret Gray, wife of Wollongong University College's first Warden, is foundation president.

Membership is open to women graduates of any university. Current members represent a variety of faculties and a variety of Australian and overseas universities. Our meetings thus provide a forum for stimulating discussion and cross-fertilisation of ideas.

Meetings are held at 7.30 pm on first Wednesday of February, April, June, August and October in the Council Room, with the December meeting informal. Recent guest speakers included Dr Han Rubin (Beijing Uni), Faye Montgomery (Theatre South), Glen Moore (Planetarium), Dr Don Lewis on Economics of Crime and speakers on Dangers of Prescribed Drugs, Scuba Diving and Cultural Differences affecting child-rearing in Papua New Guinea and Australia.

GRADUATE ASSISTANT/ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

To give staff of The University of Wollongong opportunity of gaining wider exposure to the University's governing body and associated functional areas, applications are invited from staff interested in taking over the duties of Minute Secretary.

Working with the University Secretary, the successful applicant will be responsible for the preparation of Council and Administrative Committee agendas and ensuring that resolutions and associated documentation are actioned in accordance with University policies.

These duties would not occupy a full-time position and it is expected they would be undertaken in conjunction with some of, or all, the successful applicant's existing duties. Any staff member interested in this opportunity should discuss the matter with Peter Wood in the first instance. Applications should be forwarded to the Personnel Services Branch by September 10.

SECRETARY ACADEMIC SERVICES BRANCH

This newly created position is now offered under the Job Rotation Program, initially for a period of 12 months.

The Branch requires the services of an experienced Secretary preferably with knowledge of word processors. The appointee will provide secretarial services to the Branch Head and other staff, with duties including typing, maintaining records, filing and liaison with staff, students and members of the public.

Applicants must be able to meet University standards for typing.

Commencing salary will be within the range $16628 to $18871 per annum.

Further information from Peter Wood on ext 3943.

Staff members are invited to apply for rotation into this position. Applications should be forwarded to the Personnel Services Branch by no later than today September 9.

Enquiries concerning the Job Rotation Program generally should be directed to Gary Graham, ext 3935, or Wendy Raikes, ext 3798.

APPOINTMENT OF VICE-CHANCELLOR

The Vice-Chancellorship of Flinders University will become vacant when the resignation of the present Vice-Chancellor, Professor K.J. Hancock, takes effect on 16 February 1987.

The university is considering the appointment of a successor to Professor Hancock and invites expressions of interest in the position from suitably qualified persons. Information from other persons concerning suitable appointees would also be welcome.

Expressions of interest, information concerning suitable appointees and general enquiries should be directed in the first instance to the Registrar, The Flinders University of South Australia, Bedford Park, South Australia, 5042.

HOLIDAY ACCOMMODATION

Holiday accommodation is available to staff at other colleges, universities and government departments.

The scheme is intended to benefit both parties, in that staff are able to utilise good holiday accommodation at a very modest cost, while the College derives income from an otherwise unutilised asset.

This year student residences will again be available. See notice boards, other information at Campus News.

NEW AFFIRMATIVE ACTION LEGISLATION PASSED

Despite the drastic effects of Federal budget cuts on many government programs, the Affirmative Action (Equal Employment Opportunity for Women) Act 1986, was passed by Federal Parliament on August 22.

The Act requires all private sector companies in Australia with more than 100 employees, and all higher-education institutions, to take positive steps to open employment opportunities for women and to submit annual reports on their progress.

It is estimated that this affects, throughout Australia, 65 higher-education institutions, approximately 500 companies with over 1,000 employees, 500 with between 500 and 1,000 employees and almost 3,500 with between 100 and 500 employees.

The program will be phased in over the next few years beginning with the larger companies in February 1987. The starting date for higher-education institutions, originally scheduled for August 1986, is yet to be announced.

Because NSW Universities, including our own, already comply with the requirements of the NSW Anti-Discrimination Act, this legislation should not radically affect us except in terms of our reporting requirements to the Federal authorities. The major additional provision in the Federal Act is the prescribed consultation with trade unions and employees—a practice usually followed under State Legislation, but not compulsory.

The real impact of this legislation will be in states where there are currently no requirements to implement equal opportunity programs, such as Queensland, and in private industry.

"Affirmative Action" simply means taking positive steps to eliminate barriers to equal opportunity, the effects of which are currently evident in the workplace.

There is no implication of preferential hiring of women, simply a positive program to, for example, attract more female applicants, provide equal training opportunities and conditions which do not unfairly disadvantage women.

During "hard times", the passing of this Bill is a clear indication of the government's commitment to equal opportunity so that the nation's talent may be harnessed regardless of sex.

Scholarships and Prizes

POSTGRADUATE COURSE AWARDS AND RESEARCH AWARDS

The Postgraduate Course Awards Scheme was introduced in 1971 following the development in Australia of high level specialised postgraduate coursework degrees. The Awards are administered by the Commonwealth Department of Education and may be held for full-time study in approved courses leading to the degree of Master by coursework at Australian universities. They are not tenable for postgraduate research.

Awards must be taken up in the year for which they are granted, and may not be deferred for study in a later year. Applicants must therefore be in a position to study on a full-time basis and to commence their studies in 1987.

Each year the Commonwealth Government makes available to students a number of Awards for full-time postgraduate research normally leading to the degree of Master and/or Ph.D. at an Australian university. Selection is highly competitive. These Awards, known as Postgraduate Research Awards, are administered by the Commonwealth Department of Education.

Awards must be taken up in the year for which they are granted, and may not be deferred for study in a later year. Applicants must therefore be in a position to study on a full-time basis and to commence their studies in 1987.

CALTEX WOMEN GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIP AND PRIZES

A Scholarship Scheme has been established by Caltex Oil (Australia) Pty Limited for postgraduate studies for Australian women. The first awards in the scheme were made in 1977 and the basic conditions remained unaltered until 1983. With the significant increase in costs in postgraduate studies overseas, and in particular in the United Kingdom, it became necessary for the conditions of the Caltex Scholarship Scheme to be substantially revised.

The current arrangements for the administration of this scheme involve the award of one National Scholarship valued at $44,000 in addition to six other State Prizes valued at $5,000 each. The holder of the National Scholarship is selected from the winners of the State Prizes and thus the principal award is valued at the very significant sum of $49,000.

Closing date September 26.

These projects are to be carried out during the summer vacation in recognised institutions. The Scholarships are tenable for six to eight weeks during the vacation period and are valued at $100 per week. Two scholarships are offered each year in each State or Territory in Australia.

The Prize known as the Walter Burfitt Prize was established by the Royal Society of NSW as the result of a generous gift to the Society by the late Dr W.F. Burfitt, BA, MB, ChM, BSc, of Sydney, which was augmented later by a gift from Mrs W.F. Burfitt.

1. The Walter Burfitt Prize shall be awarded at intervals of three years to the worker in pure or applied science, resident in Australia or New Zealand, whose papers and other contributions published during the past six years are deemed of the highest scientific merit, account being taken only of investigations described for the first time, and carried out by the author mainly in these Dominions.

2. The prize may be awarded to two authors working in collaboration.

3. The prize is $500.
